Consultants' Latest Report Estimates 240-Space Garage Would Be Sufficient

Would you believe a 240-car parking garage? More important, would Princeton residents accept such a structure in their central business district?

A parking garage of that size, far smaller than the one proposed by Borough Council but rejected after public opposition a year ago, might be sufficient to meet the parking deficiency estimated in the most recent survey conducted in the CBD.

A preliminary draft of that survey, taken in April, was distributed this week to Borough officials and members of the Citizens Steering Committee studying the CBD design plan. The committee will meet Thursday at 8 in Borough Hall to discuss the survey report and consider solutions to the parking problems. And only the parking problems.

As Borough Mayor Robert Cawley observed, "We'll be busy enough with that. Our objective Thursday night will be to get the steering committee either to ratify the study or to make amendments as they feel it is appropriate."

"In order to have any semblance of motion, we have to do at least that," Mr. Cawley continued. "If we don't get the parking done, then everything else gets tied up." Another meeting of the steering committee, to consider other aspects of the CBD design, is tentatively scheduled for Thursday, June 21.

The thorny parking question has been impeding the revitalization of the CBD for years. Last summer the Borough unveiled plans for a five-story garage that would be constructed over existing lots and that would span Spring Street, just off Witherspoon. The garage was designed to alleviate a parking shortage estimated to range from 700 to 900 all-day spaces.

That plan was scuttled after several heated presentations before the Regional Planning Board. A consultant, the firm of Venturi and Rauch, was hired. The consultant wanted another parking study, done by the firm of Alan M. Voorhees and Associates from Maclean, Virginia. The Borough obliged, at a cost of $6,000.

The Voorhees study, in its preliminary form, appears to show a much smaller parking deficiency than any previous estimate the CBD planners have had to consider. The parking planners' conclusions were these:

"At parking facilities presently serving the Princeton CBD, there was shown to be a deficiency of 240 long-term spaces.

"The provision of 240 additional long-term spaces would create a surplus of 44 one-hour spaces and 84 two-hour spaces, provided that an appropriate parking rate structure were implemented. Such a rate structure would make all-day parking cost significantly less than the cost of 'meter-feeding' short-term facilities, and at the same time make short-term meter rates less than the short-term rates charged at long-term facilities.

"The surplus of 44 one-hour spaces and 84 two-hour spaces could be utilized by an estimated latent

Consolidation Unit Favors Adopting Government Similar to Form Used by Borough for Many Years

The Joint Consolidation Municipal Study Commission took its first "straw vote" last week and found itself split just about down the middle, although not along Borough-Township lines.

The vote was on the form of government the Commission will recommend to the voters in the fall, should consolidation of Borough and Township also be recommended. The vote was 5 to 4 in favor of a borough form of government over the Faulkner Act mayor-council form, with one member undecided.

Voting for the so-called "weak" mayor borough form, which gives Council members administrative as well as legislative powers and the Mayor no vote except in case of tie and limited appointing power, were William Selden, Dean Chace, Nicholas Van Dyke, Jay Bleiman and Margaret Broadwater. Henry Sayen, chairman of the Committee on Possible Forms of Government, which had earlier recommended the strong mayor-council form, voted for his committee's recommendation, as did Arthur Morgan, James Floyd and Charlotte Gipson. Peter Bearse, undecided, abstained.

Because the Committee on Possible Forms of Government had favored a mayor-council form of government by a committee vote of 11 to 5, it had seemed that this form would also be recommended by the full Commission. However, it may have been the circulation among Commission members of a one-page report from the League of Women Voters that had influenced their thinking last week.

The League recommended the borough form and suggested that "by proposing a familiar form of government, the choice for the voters is not complicated any more than necessary. If the voters favored consolidation," the report went on, "the transition to a consolidated municipality and the adjustments which this entails would be eased if it were not also necessary to adjust to a new form of government."

The League report suggested that although the Faulkner mayor-council form of government has many advantages in providing efficient and effective government, it appears the borough form is capable of incorporating these advantages to some extent since some of its functioning depends upon custom rather than law. The League also felt that a special charter, as proposed by Allen Porter, would complicate the decision on consolidation because the Commission would have to decide upon each provision of the Charter within the next two weeks and if consolidation is voted in November, the Special Charter then has to be passed by the New Jersey Legislature.

Citizen Participation. In addition to discussion on points covered by the League report, the question of volunteerism received a good deal of attention from the Commission last week, especially as it relates to citizen participation on boards and agencies in a municipal government. Under the mayor-council form, these various boards and commissions would become advisory and would no longer have the policy or budget-making responsibilities they now enjoy.

Mr. Sayen conceded that the problem of losing volunteers had also given him pause in recommending the mayor-council form, but he was inclined to believe that if people were interested in a particular aspect of local government they would continue to serve, even if on an advisory basis. Mrs. Gipson thought perhaps it might work the other way – that people would want to serve if they knew their "necks weren't on the line."

Mr. Bleiman thought the tradition in Princeton is for strong volunteer participation. "We have groomed people, they like to waste time," he said. A man in the audience pointed out that the Commission had lost sight of the fact that in its own deliberations 100 people had come forward to help.

Volunteerism troubled Mr. Bearse, too, the one member of the Commission who didn't declare himself in the informal straw vote on form of government. "Maybe volunteerism is a question of breadth and depth," he speculated.

"The current arrangement involves depth of commitment of time and responsibility. I am wondering if breadth would also necessarily be lost" under the mayor-council form.

Views on Consolidation. Earlier in the meeting the Commission continued its discussion on the advisability-feasibility of consolidation, and the consensus, without a vote, seemed to be unanimously for it. Members who had not spoken the week before included Mr. Van Dyke, who said he favored recommending to the electorate to consolidate but was concerned that the Commission remember that it is a study group and not an advocacy group. "We are obliged to give the pros and cons to a discerning electorate," he said.

Parking Report

demand for 79 retail spaces and 45 restaurant spaces. Alternately, some of the on-street short term surplus could be selectively removed to enhance traffic flow."

If the Voorhees report's findings are accepted (and businessmen from the central district may argue strenuously that the parking problems are understated), the problem remaining will be how to create the additional parking. Even a 240-car garage may be controversial.

The Financing. When asked if Borough Council were still committed to a parking garage, the Mayor replied, "They'd better be." Mr. Cawley pointed out that the total cost of the Venturi and Rauch study, $57,000, has been financed by a bond issue which would become part of the total indebtedness of the parking garage, assuming one is built. "This cost, along with the construction costs, will be paid off by the users of the garage," he said, not the taxpayers.

Ann McGoldrick, a member of the steering committee and a leader of the neighborhood opposition to last year's garage, sounded slightly more amenable to a garage that would be substantially smaller in scale. "If it's not all long-term parking, which would flood out onto the streets at rush hour when traffic is already bad enough, and if there is not a huge bridge constructed across Spring Street, then it might be possible," she said.

Mrs. McGoldrick still would like to see the development of fringe lots for all-day parkers. "I don't see why someone who works in Princeton feels he must be able to park on Witherspoon within a half block of the office," she said. "We should take into consideration the needs of residents in the area as well."

Those people opposed to the garage last year, she added, are not necessarily opposed to all garages. "We recognize that we all need to give a little," Mrs. McGoldrick said. "The neighborhoods, too, may have to face the fact that there may be a parking garage some day. But that doesn't mean that we have to commit all of our CBD space to all-day parkers. Businesses have to give a little, too."

It all sounded absolutely conciliatory. Would you believe a conciliatory meeting to discuss the possibility of a parking garage?

University Awards 1,589 Degrees at Commencement Tuesday; 45 Percent of Seniors Receiving Diplomas Achieve Honors

Princeton University conferred a total of 1,589 bachelor and advanced degrees Tuesday morning at its 232nd Commencement.

There were 672 men and 334 women in the graduating senior class--a total of 1,006 recipients of bachelor's degrees. The undergraduate degrees included 815 bachelors of arts and 191 bachelors of science in engineering.

Of those awarded undergraduate degrees, 455--or 45 per cent--received some form of honors: 81 highest honors, 160 high honors, and 214 honors; 47 per cent of women received honors and 44 per cent of men.

Among the recipients of honorary degrees was Carl G. Hempel of 51 Lake Lane, Stuart Professor of Philosophy, emeritus, at the University.

In the citation, University orator John B. Coburn said of Professor Hempel, "In his 20 years at Princeton, his classroom was a crucible in which students and the subjects of their studies were fused by the magic of his art into understanding--that elusive compound which is the true goal of education. His rigorous, yet compassionate, tutelage nurtures in his students confidence in the powers of their own intellects. A philosopher of science, he has, through his scholoarly achievements and the force of his personality, immeasurably deepened man's understanding of himself as nature's interpretor."

Other honorary degree recipients were Elizabeth Bishop, the Pulitzer Prize-winning poet; Andrew J. Goodpaster, superintendent of the United States Military Academy at West Point; Joseph Papp, founder and producer of the New York Shakespeare Festival and also a Pulitzer Prize winner; Tom Bradley, mayor of Los Angeles; and Eunice Kennedy Shriver, executive vice president of the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Foundation.

In keeping with long tradition, the two principal commencement speeches, the valedictory and Latin salutatory addresses, were delivered by members of the graduating class. The valedictorian was Anthony M. Szpilka, 21, of Detroit, Mich. The salutatorian was Joshua K. Scodel, 21, of San Francisco, Calif. Princeton President William G. Bowen delivered brief remarks at the conclusion of the commencement ceremonies.

Nine additional undergraduates from earlier classes also were awarded degrees Tuesday.

The 574 advanced degrees included 242 doctors of philosophy; 199 masters of arts; 55 masters of science in engineering; 51 masters in public affairs; 13 masters in fine arts; and 14 masters of architecture and urban planning.

$1,000 GRANTS WON

By Two Area Residents. Elizabeth B. Fine of 112 Rollingmead, a teacher of Latin and Greek at Princeton Day School, and Robert P. Bonja of Griggstown, the science department chairman at Churchill Junior High in East Brunswick, have received grants of $1,000 each from Princeton University in recognition of their significant contributions to education.

They were among four New Jersey secondary school teachers who received prizes for distinguished teaching at the University's commencement exercises on Tuesday. Established in 1959 by an anonymous gift from a Princeton alumnus, the prizes recognize "fruitful teaching and devoted service" in New Jersey schools.

In addition to the $1,000 awarded to each winner, a grant of $250 is made to each of their schools for the purchase of library books.

At a time when interest in classics is diminishing throughout the country, Mrs. Fine's efforts have resulted in an increase in the number of students at Princeton Day School who wish to go on to advanced Latin and Greek courses. She also has arranged monthly lectures in the field of classics for faculty and students of both PDS and Princeton High School.

Mrs. Fine received an A.B. degree from the University of Wisconsin in 1928 and earned her Ph.D. degree at Yale University in 1932. She has taught Latin in Northampton, Mass.; New Haven, Conn.; Williamstown, Mass.; and at Miss Fine's and John Witherspoon schools in Princeton. The 70-year-old classicist has been with PDS since 1967 and will retire this month.

MRS. FINE CITED: Elizabeth B. Fine, of 112 Rollingmead, retiring this year as a teacher of Latin and Greek at Princeton Day School, was among four New Jersey secondary school teachers honored by Princeton University at commencement ceremonies Tuesday. She received a $1,000 grant; PDS was given $250 for the purchase of library books.

Tetescopes Time. According to a colleague, Mrs. Fine's "range of expertise covers history of almost any given period, music and theatre, several modern languages, archaeology, and anthropology." A current student notes that she has the "ability to telescope time, to make the past seem immediate and relevant, and in so doing to excite the imagination of her students."

Her husband, John V. A. Fine, is a professor of Greek language and literature, emeritus, at Princeton University.

Mr. Bonja has been teaching science at Churchill for the past 16 years. He currently gives courses in biology, introduction to physical science and applied science. He co-authored the course in applied science for ninth-grade students, which emphasizes hands-on activities.

After receiving his B.S. degree in ornamental horticulture from Rutgers University in 1958, Mr. Bonja spent three years with the U.S. Air Force. He earned his teacher certification in secondary sciences in 1963 at Trenton State College and his master's degree in biological science in 1967. He was awarded a Ph.D. in ornamental horticulture by Rutgers in 1975.

were among three men active in Princeton University affairs who received Alumni Council Awards for Service last Saturday.

Mr. Fox, the University's special assistant in public affairs and keeper of Princetoniana, and Mr. Finch, professor of English, emeritus, were honored before a gathering of more than 5,000 alumni, families and friends who had gathered on the university's Clarke Field at the end of the P-Rade, the traditional procession that is the high point of Princeton alumni reunions. Also receiving an award was Levering Cortwright of Chicago, a patron of letters at the university.

Mr. Fox, who was named to his current positions at Princeton in 1976, had been the university's recording secretary since 1964. A member of the Class of 1939, he serves it as class secretary. A graduate of Union Theological Seminary, he has been pastor of Congregational churches in four states and the District of Columbia and in 1961 spent a semester in Africa as a missionary - teacher. He worked on the staff of President Eisenhower from 1956 to 1961 as liaison between the White House and America's many volunteer agencies.

Mr. Finch, who retired as professor of English at Princeton in 1975, had been a member of the faculty for 39 years. He had served as secretary of the university from 1966 to 1974 and as dean of the college from 1955 to 1961. Although his degrees are all from Cornell, the Princeton Class of 1931 made him an honorary member.

Poet's Corner

The word is "moon"
To rhyme with "June";
But I'll take "sun"--
It's lots more fun.

After well over an inch of rain Monday, on top of all that had come this month and last, everybody will take sun. And for once, the sun will be here for the taking.

Hard to believe, but the mid-week weather map showed very little rain falling anywhere in the U.S. With weather going from west to east, the east should have generally fair skies right through the weekend. After Tuesday's early morning readings in the mid-40s in outlying areas, the temperature range will be from 55-60 at night to around 80 or even warmer during daytime hours.

WORK STILL HALTED

On PHS Renovation. The labor dispute which has curtailed virtually all of the work on the $4.3 million high school renovation project continued this week, with school officials increasingly worried about the possibility of disruption of regular school work when it resumes in September.

The disruptions will probably be minor--dust and noise from the building activities. But school officials do not know how long the dispute could continue and whether or not it could affect the scheduled completion date of the project, September, 1980, or the total cost.

"Our architects tell us that we can probably still meet the scheduled completion date, but it means that everything will be tightened up, and they will have to do some juggling of the work schedule," said Paul Houston, superintendent of schools. "The current delay should not change the total cost but that's always an unknown. Other labor unions are beginning their negotiations soon and there may be more union problems."

Dr. Houston reported that progress on the selection of a new high school principal was moving ahead much more smoothly.

The screening committee met Tuesday to pare down a list of about 100 candidates to a group of eight to 10 who would be interviewed for the position. Those interviews, the superintendent said, may begin as early as the latter part of next week, and they may be open to the public, though questions would not be allowed from the floor.

Open Process. "It's a little different wrinkle than we've tried before," said Dr. Houston of the proposed open interviews. "We're trying to make the selection process as open as possible. If a candidate does not mind, I see no reason why we shouldn't invite the public to observe." The public could direct comments to the superintendent at a later time.

"It gives me that much more information in trying to narrow down the choices," he said.

Dr. Houston said that of the 100 candidates, about half seemed to meet the board's original criteria for the job. Most of the candidates were from New Jersey, though there were three or four foreign countries represented. Few women applied and few minorities. Only one application wa received from within the Princeton Regional SchoolDistrict.

How come, he was asked. "People here may feel that we really should go outside and get a fresh approach," he said. "Or it may mean that people here feel the problems are so big that they don't even want to try to tackle them. Or it may be because there was a heavy emphasis on experience in the criteria set forth." People may have figured that they had to be a principal in order to have a chance for this job.

Facilities Studied. The superintendent said that the selection of a supervisor of guidance would probably wait until after the principal is selected, even though applications are already being received. "We'll probably screen them and at least have the new principal participate in the final stages of the selection," he said.

The last regular board meeting of the school year was held Tuesday, although Dr. Houston anticipated that a special meeting to approve the selection of a high school principal could be called by the end of this month or early in July.

At this week's meeting, the board circulated copies of a preliminary report of the Long Range Planning Committee for Facilities Usage. "It's mostly data and it seems to indicate that enrollments are going to continue to go down," said Dr. Houston.

An actual recommendation to the board is not expected until the fall. One of the possibilities, of course, would be the closing of a school. The report is expected to receive much scrutiny. As one board member said, "No one ever considered closing a school without having a big ruckus."

WATER, WATER....

At Redding Terrace. When Redding Terrace, the public housing project at the corner of Mount Lucas Road and Ewing Street, was first proposed, opponents questioned the effect the development would have on drainage in that area, and its ability to withstand water problems.

Now, in the wake of recent heavy rains, some of those problems have materialized, despite the construction of retention basins and other efforts by the contractor.

Princeton Housing Authority official Karin Slaby confirmed that water has seeped into several of the apartments, particularly in two buildings that are built on an incline and near a ridge of rocky ground. "The water mostly seeps into the kitchens and the bathrooms," Mrs. Slaby said.

It is not anything approaching a flooded condition, although the family of one elderly resident did move the woman out of her dampened apartment. The problems are mostly damp and wet floors, Mrs. Slaby said.

Redding Terrace consists of 60 one-bedroom and studio units, plus 40 family-sized units. They are federally subsidized for low income and elderly people. Mostly completed in December, the units are now 100 per cent occupied, according to Mrs. Slaby.

No Fault. "The contractor has done some work, but has not yet solved the problem," she said. "Now a professional engineer has submitted a report, as well." The contractor is assuming all the costs, she added.

"We're not faulting anyone," said Mrs. Slaby. "They were built according to specifications and the contractor has done many things beyond the contract to try to solve the problem. They are spending a lot of their own money."

The problems are compounded, she noted, by the fact the tenants "were so eager that they moved in as quickly as possible" and, of course, by the fact that it has just rained and rained and rained. "You can't anticipate everything that will happen, as anyone who builds a house knows," Mrs. Slaby said.

MORE TALKS PLANNED

By Land Use Committee. While admitting he has "mixed feelings" about the delay, the chairman of the land use committee of the Regional Planning Board has called two more meetings next week to continue the discussion of the land use element that will eventually be incorporated into the proposed Princeton master plan.

The committee will hold a public meeting Monday at 8 in Valley Road School to hear comments from three landowners: Dr. Sam Hamod, who owns property at Witherspoon and Birch streets; Princeton Day School, which may eventually sell some of its land currently categorized as institutional; and the Commodities Corporation, which is questioning the designation of land surrounding its headquarters on Mount Lucas Road.

On Tuesday, same hour, same place, the land use committee will meet in a work session to consider these comments and review its recommendations once again before presenting them to the Planning Board and the professional consultants who will use them to draw up the full master plan.

"We feel strongly that when it comes to a master plan an agency must respond to the public," said Jerome Rose, chairman of the committee, following a similar work session this Monday night. "Land owners are not planners. It takes them time to react to the implications of a master plan."

But, continued Dr. Rose, "we want to finish desperately. We hope to get this to the professional consultants within another week. We're just about ready to sign a contract. Plus we're moving into July and August when a lot of people are going on vacation, including myself."

Persuasive Public. "We feel we should be responsive to the public," said the planner, "though it doesn't always mean we will change our minds. But frequently the public has persuasive arguments."

The consultants who will handle the master plan next are the firm of Musial and Guerra, from northern New Jersey, and Carl Lindbloom, from Princeton. "He's worked on the housing policy statement here and as a planner in town," said Dr. Rose. Having a person from Princeton, he added, "should save a lot of time and avoid the silly little errors that can occur when you have out of towners coming in."

Once the consultants have their information, they will have five months in which to complete the formal master plan, based on the elements set forth by the various parts of the Planning Board. Then it comes back to the Planning Board to be debated in open session.

Then ordinances have to be drafted to enact the various provisions of the plan. Dr. Rose's optimistic estimate of completion: the beginning of next year.

Washington Road Closed

It's official. Washington Road, one of the main arteries to Princeton, was closed to traffic Monday to allow the connection of two converging sewer lines.

The road is scheduled to re-open Thursday or Friday. With good weather forecast for the rest of the week, Sgt. Anthony Nini, Township traffic officer, said that he was optimistic the construction crew would not be held back and the work will be completed on time.

THIEF IS FLUSHED

By MAP. A day after Borough police were extolling the virtue of an expanded Merchant Alert Plan (MAP), a would-be thief was flushed by the plan.

Police said they received a call last week from the store of a Palmer Square merchant on which a suspect had been observed attempting to conceal a $795 bracelet. MAP was activated by Det. Charles Harris and a short time later an employee of a woman's apparel shop on Nassau Street reported seeing the suspect to police.

The suspect was later apprehended on University Place by PU. David Alston and returned to the Palmer Square store -- which police declined to identify -- where positive identification was made. Police identified the suspect as William E. Hunt, 33, of Camden. A check with the National Crime Information Center revealed that Hunt was wanted by Camden police for contempt of court.

Arraigned before Judge Philip Carchman, who set bail at $2500, Hunt was later taken in lieu of bail to Mercer county Jail.

Theft or Vandalism? Police say they don't know whether it was an attempted entry or vandalism but early Thursday morning someone hurled a slab of concrete against a display window of Kalmus Jewelers, 20 Nassau Street.

Police said it was a double window. The outer glass shattered but an inner, shatter-proof pane, though broken, remained intact. Sgt. Robert Anderson, Ptl. James Agins and Ptl. Robert Mucciarelli investigated.

15 BREAK-INS REPORTED

Most On Campus. Borough and Township police reported 15 breaking and enterings with larceny last week, most of which occurred on the universitycampus.

A Lakeside Drive resident lost $80 when she left her wallet in a second-floor room of 1940 Hall while watching Saturday's P-rade.

A resident of Lawrence Apartments off Faculty Road told police Saturday that a cigar box had been stolen from the top drawer of his filing cabinet. Inside were eight $100 bills and $100 in 20s. There was no sign of forced entry.

Between 6:50 and 11 Friday morning, someone kicked in the front door of a Snowden Lane home and stole a $700 color TV console from the study. Nothng else in the house was disturbed.

The campus was a favorite spot for thieves during reunion weekend. Little Hall was hit three times: a $75 camera and $65 taken from one unlocked room and $40 from another unlocked room.

While a student's room in the same hall was occupied at 3:30 Saturday morning, a white male about 6-0 tall, wearing dark trousers and a white shirt, removed $50 from a wallet in a pair of trousers and $10 belonging to another before the occupants had time to react.

An unlocked room in 1903 Hall yielded a $150 wristwatch and $78 in cash and from another room in the same dormitory, a thief took a camera and three lenses valued at $500. No forced entry, said police.

Another P-rade victim was a student in Blair Hall, who returned to his unlocked room to discover $150 missing from his wallet, and in one of several thefts reported on Saturday, a Gauss Hall student told police $16 was taken from his wallet. His room was also left unlocked.

Ptl. Victor Fasanella investigated another wallet theft reported Monday, this one involving $40 to $50 from an unlocked room in South Dod Hall. A camera in a black leather case ($200) was taken from an unlocked third-floor room at the Tower Club.

From the bedroom of a Bayard Lane home, an intruder took a purse containing $35 and a $225 camera. No forced entry, said police, of the incident reported at 2 Monday afternoon.

A screen was cut to enter the window of a Nassau Street apartment during the weekend while the occupant was away. Stolen, police said, were a color television set and $12.

A purse containing $10 and credit cards was stolen Monday evening from a house on John Street. Sgt. Thomas Procaccino investigated.

Time Running Out on Opportunities for Acquiring Open Space; Need Seen to Increase Town's Goal from 2,500 to 3,000 Acres

"This is about our last chance to acquire open space."

This is the judgement of Philip Minis of Edgerstoune Road, long-time member of the Township Environmental Commission and president during its first year of the joint Princeton Environmental Commission. They also could be the words of James Sayen, a current member of the commission, who has compiled an inventory at the request of the Land Use Committee of the Planning Board of all open space locations, along with the commission's recommendation that the goal be increased from 2,500 acres to 3,000.

The original open space total planned acreage of 2,500 represented 25 per cent of the 10,000-acre land area of the Township, but was based on a mixmum population of 35,000 to 40,000 for both Borough and Township, according to Mr. Sayen. He was chairman of the Open Space Commission that made the recommendations which were adopted by the Township in 1963 and by the Regional Planning Board in 1968. Still sticking to the 25 per cent goal, today's Environmental Commission has "strongly" urged that the total be increased by adding the 2,000 acres of the Borough to the 10,000 acres of the Township as one of the criteria to be used in future planning for open space.

Mr. Minis feels that projections for purchasing open space "should parallel our projections of population increase" and cites the acquisition of the Kleinberg tract as an example. This is an area of 11 acres across Bunn Drive from the Community Village that he first proposed as a recreation site for the adults and children at PCV. It was eventually acquired with state and federal monies.

To Enhance a Vista. Although no longer active with the Environmental Commission, Mr. Minis has a continuing interest in the quality of life in this town. That area by the road into Johnson Park School with its vista on Stony Brook that is pictured on the front page, for instance, he would like to see cleaned up and made into a picnic area. There should be a barrier, he suggests, to keep cars from driving right to the edge of the bluff and to create a parking area for a few cars.

A picnic table or two with benches and a refuse bin should be placed at the edge of the bluff so people could sit and enjoy the view, he thinks.

Another priority high on Mr. Minis's list for improving the quality of life in Princeton is developing bus stops. "They could be made into attractive sitting areas," Mr. Minis asserts, leaning on the adjective "attractive." He dreams of paving the area around the stop with something like Belgian block, as is done in European cities, and if that proved too expensive, in brick or concrete in attractive patterns.

In some places, such as the stop on Harrison Street by Spruce Circle, it would be desirable to have a shelter too. He thinks there are good designs available consisting of a metal frame and with a sloped glass top and two glass sides against the prevailing wind.

Project of the Garden Clubs? There should be the inevitable refuse bin for the inevitable litter, but there could be planting and a brightly painted bench instead of the single signpost, occasional drab bench and plenty of litter that presently signify bus stops to the waiting public. Mr. Minis thinks that the garden clubs might sponsor the shelter.

Another of Mr. Minis's pet projects and one which isn't progressing rapidly enough to suit him is Turning Basin Park at the foot of Alexander Street. He was one of the negotiators for the gift of four acres from the University on the south side of the canal. Plans for the park, 10 acres in all, call for the dredging of the old barge turning basin, constructing canoe launch ramps and establishing picnic and parking areas.

While Mr. Minis tends to emphasize the need for open space in terms of people and recreation, Mr. Sayen is glad for all the bits and pieces of land that can be permanently colored green on an open space map. The inventory he has prepared for the Land Use Committee divides these areas into five categories, parks and playfields, historic parks, neighborhood parks and playgrounds, reservations and private open space, including flood plain and clusters.

Shortfall Noted. The report notes that a shortfall exists in the neighborhood parks and playgrounds category, for which the ultimate goal is 160 acres and actually on hand or proposed are a little over 70 acres. "Much thought should be given to increasing properly sited and planned neighborhood parks," Mr. Sayen writes. "We recommend that whenever any high density housing is built that adequate open space be required for active and passive recreation."

Among its suggested priorities, the report lists setting aside money for purchasing the final 50 acres of the Poe section of Woodfield Park and buying the 8.8 acre addition to the Van Dyke Wight tract off Snowden Lane.

"We believe that our original projection for an open space program for 35-40,000 people should not be discarded," the report asserts. Citing the deterioration of the overall water quality, the fragility of large areas of the Township, the energy crisis and the fact that people will have more leisure time to use public facilities, the report concludes that all the above factors "clearly indicate a need for more parks and open space over and above the 2400 acres presently in our inventory."

COMMENCEMENT HELD

At Stuart School. Forty seniors, the largest class of graduates, received their diplomas at the 15th commencement at Stuart Country Day School Friday afternoon. Sister Joan Kirby, the first headmistress at Stuart and currently headmistress of the Convent of the Sacred Heart, New York City, was the speaker.

The graduates, their parents and friends, began the day with a mass celebrated by the Rev. John J. Begley, S.J., chaplain at Stuart. The liturgy of commencement was planned by the members of the senior class, Jane Maddock, Ellen Spicer, Julie Campo, and Theresa McKee with the assistance of William Mehle, head of the religion department. For the communion, bread was baked by Maggie O'Hara and Susan Crowell.

Following the mass the seniors were joined by the entire Upper School in the auditorium where prizes and certificates of distinctions were awarded. Formal graduation activities took place in the afternoon when the seniors gathered in the garden for the traditional procession. Sister Joan Magnetti, headmistress, awarded the diplomas. Joseph Crowley, chairman of the advisory board introduced the speaker, Sister Kirby, and Sister Sandra Theunik gave the invocation.

Cynthia McVay and Simina Farcasiu were the class valedictorians. Miss McVay achieved the rank of number one in the class for four years of academic excellence, graduated with highest honor and was the winner of the Women's College Club President's Award and the Stuart Faculty Award for her outstanding contribution to the school.

Democratic Candidate for Mayor Launches '79 Campaign Early With Proposal to Increase Parking by Making Spaces Smaller

SMALL IS BEAUTIFUL: When it comes to parking cars in Princeton's central business district, that's certainly true. Now the Democratic candidate for Borough Mayor, Robert McChesney, would like to scale down some Borough parking spaces to make more of them available and help ease the parking shortage. As Mr. McChesney illustrates on Nassau Street opposite the Methodist Church, the typical compact car, with a length of 14 feet or less, fits into a typical Borough parking space, average length 21 feet, with plenty of room to spare. He recommends reducing the size of about half the present number of curbside parking spaces.

The summer of '79, for that matter the fall of '79, were supposed to be quiet times, politically speaking, in the Borough of Princeton. Yes, this is the year of the mayoral election. But the Republican incumbent is Robert Cawley, who already has been elected to that post three times. When he announced his intention to seek a fourth term, the Democrats seemed to become very retiring.

Nelson van den Blink, president of Borough Council, toyed with the idea of running, and then abandoned it. Robert McChesney of Hawthorne Avenue, a professor at New York University who has been active in Princeton affairs, was approached by Democratic officials. He, too, flirted with the idea, and then abandoned it.

"I originally turned it down for career reasons," he recalled. "I'm under tenure review right now and I thought I would devote all the time I could to preparing a monograph and getting my publication list in order."

The deadline for placing a Democrat on the June primary ballot approached. And passed. Mr. Cawley apparently would run unopposed. Some Democrats, apparently fearful of the impression this would create for their party, approached Mr. McChesney again. Would he run as a write-in candidate? Finally he agreed. Last week, he received 101 write-in votes.

"I'm for Reat." That might have been the end of that. Mr. McChesney, 35 years old, could spend his summer writing that monograph, could knock on some doors in the fall, lose gracefully in the November election, and remind everyone along the way that Princeton is still a two-party town, Mayor Cawley's successes over the last 10 years notwithstanding.

But that is not what Mr. McChesney has in mind. "When I'm in something, I'm in it for real," he said this week, after throwing himself into one of the hottest political squabbles in town by issuing a press release on the parking problems in the central business district.

Not Laid Back. "Some Democrats may have said that McChesney will be a credible fill-in candidate against Cawley, "the candidate said. "But others knew that I would run a good campaign. You won't see a laid-back-until-after-Labor-Day campaign from me. You will see a lot more of these press releases."

What about the monograph? Mr. McChesney, who is married to a University research librarian and has two children, replied that he has his day "all planned out. I'll spend six hours on that every day, from 6 a.m. to noon." Mr. McChesney was reminded that, at the moment he was speaking, it was still before noon. "Today, as I expect could be the case on many days, the regimen has been broken."

Though somewhat unexpected, the brewing battle between Mr. McChesney and Mr. Cawley should not break with the traditions of gentlemanly Princeton politics. The closest the Democratic challenger is likely to come to gutter politics was this week, when he went into the gutters to measure the sizes of Princeton parking spaces. He recommended in his press release that some spaces be reduced in size to allow more compact cars to park downtown and possibly eliminate the need of a parking garage.

He conceded his proposal is not the ultimate solution to the Borough's urban ills. "It would at least give the impression that we can move--that the Borough is not totally bogged down in the parking garage question," he said. "I have great admiration for Bob Cawley, but I think I offer new ideas that could benefit Princeton after 10 years of his leadership."

Tending to Business. Mayor Cawley said he was not surprised by his opponent's aggressiveness. "Knowing Rob, I assumed that he'd go after it," he said. The mayor himself plans to spend his summer tending to his job as assistant director for research administration at Western Electric, and to his duties as mayor, which he estimates to consume an average of 20 hours weekly.

Mr. Cawley also plans to go on vacation. He does not plan to begin campaigning until after Labor Day.

But what did he think of Mr. McChesney's proposal? "His math sounds like numbers we got from the hearings on the parking garage. People who are experienced with this concept are fairly negative toward it. Apparently there is a tendency of regular-sized cars to try to squeeze into the smaller spaces. Of course," Mr. Cawley continued, sounding just like a politician in the heat of a campaign, "I'll have to have a chance to study his proposal in detail."

Democratic Candidate

The Democratic candidate's press release read in part as follows:

'A Better Idea.' Robert McChesney, Democratic candidate for mayor of Princeton Borough, thinks he has a better idea for solving the downtown Princeton parking space shortage.

"We don't need an 800-car parking garage," said Mr. McChesney. "We may not even need a 200-car garage. What we really need is to use more efficiently the space that's already there."

Mr. McChesney proposes to accommodate at least 170 more parked cars in the central business district by redesigning public parking lots and rearranging about half the curbside parking spaces for smaller automobiles.

"The latest estimate of the CBD parking deficiency is 200 to 300 parking spaces," Mr. McChesney noted. "I believe that we can reduce that figure by 60 to 85 per cent merely by recognizing and acting on the fact that cars are getting smaller."

'Car Size Decreasing.' As a result of the energy crisis and gasoline shortage, Mr. McChesney continued, the size of the average automobile is steadily decreasing. About half of all new car purchases are in the subcompact and compact classes, where length averages 14.5 feet and is as low as 12 feet.

"And yet the Borough's metered curbside parking spaces average 21 feet in length. There's already considerable waste of space and that waste will increase as time passes and more big cars are replaced by small cars."

Mr. McChesney estimates that re-designing half of the Borough's 364 curbside spaces in the CBD for smaller cars would add 80 new parking spaces alone. An additional 90 spaces could be added by narrowing the width of half the spaces in the CBD public lots from nine to seven feet. Compact car spaces in the new hospital garage, he notes, are seven feet wide.

For curbside parking, the candidate proposes to redesign the parking spaces on one side of every CBD street for smaller cars. Public lots would have designated areas set aside for compact cars as the hospital garage now does. The redesign would not only accommodate 170 more cars but also increase parking meter revenues by about $40,000 per year, he estimated.

'Long-Run Benefits.' Mr. McChesney acknowledged that his plan would incur expenses for moving meters and re-painting lines. But these would be one-time expenses, he noted. And the benefits--increased revenues and the elimination of the cost of building a parking garage--would in the long run far outweigh the initial expense.

STUDENT'S ROOM LOOTED

Of $1,000 in Jewelry. Assorted rings, charms and jewelry valued at approximately $1,000 were stolen during the weekend from a room in 1903 Hall. Police, who received the report at 9:20 Sunday morning, said there was no forced entry.

A $250 camera and cassette tapes valued at $90 were stolen from the car of a Connecticut resident while it was parked during the weekend near McCosh Infirmary on the university campus. Police report that a front vent window was forced open.

A brown leather shoulder bag containing $20 and credit cards was removed from the unlocked car of an Erdman Avenue resident Friday while the car was parked on Erdman.

A $45 battery was stolen from the car of a Princeton resident last week while it was parked overnight at Larry's Sunoco station, 273 Nassau Street, and two boys' 10-speed bicycles were stolen Friday from the cafeteria area of Princeton High School. Both were locked, police said; one, chained to a tree, was valued at $180. The other was worth $70.

While a woman was in the gift shop at Princeton Medical Center last week, she left her wallet on the counter unguarded for a few moments. She lost $80. The empty wallet was late recovered on the hospital grounds.

A wallet containing $100 was stolen from the kitchen of a Nassau Street resident and later found wedged in the sideview mirror of the victim's car parked in the driveway. Police report no forced entry.

From the first-floor apartment of a Patton Avenue resident, a thief last week stole a stereo system valued at $510, an FM antenna ($70), $3 in coins and $50 in foreign currency. Ptl. James Agins who investigated reported there was no forced entry.

In a theft that Chief Michael Carnevale commented may become more common, a Humbert Street resident reported that someone drained the gas tank out of his car last week while it was parked at the rear of his house.

$1,305 Theft. From an unlocked desk in an office at the International Schools Services, 126 Alexander Street, a thief removed $1200 in American Express checks and various foreign currency, including $25 to $30 in English pounds, $25 in Japanese yen, $30 in Indonesian ruples and $20 in Iranian reals. Also taken in the theft, discovered Thursday, was a passport.

A cassette stereo system valued at $500 was stolen last week from a Snowden Lane home. Police said the system had been left on the front steps between 6 and 7:30 in the evening while the victim went shopping.

A collection of plants on display under a canopy on the south side of the Acme Market in the Princeton Shopping Center were stolen early this month. Taken were 14 large tropical plants, seven hanging petunia plants, five hanging fuchsia plants, six trays of assorted bedding plants and eight whiskey barrels used as planters. Total value: $349.

LITTLE DAMAGE CAUSED

By Separate Fires. There were two fires last week in the Township, neither one of which caused serious damage.

A short circuit in an electrical receptacle in a utility room in the home of Dr. Benjamin Silverman, 72 Philip Drive, is blamed for a fire that ignited three floor mops leaning against the wall. The fire was confined to the utility room.

Fans from Hook & Ladder and Engine Company 1 were used to exhaust smoke from the house. The alarm was sounded at 4:38 Friday afternoon.

At 7:45 Monday evening, police responded to a report of a fire in a greenhouse on the grounds of the Institute for Advanced Study. By the time the patrol car arrived, however, the fire had been extinguished by an employee with a garden hose.

An investigation revealed that the fire started in a defective light timer. The only damage was from smoke, police said. One piece of apparatus from Engine Company 1 went to the scene.

POLICE ISSUE WARNING

After Matt Accident. After a nine-year-old youth riding his bicycle in the Princeton Shopping Center Mall crashed through a plate glass window Monday to avoid hitting a shopper pushing a baby carriage, Township police have been instructed to enforce strictly the Township ordinance prohibiting bicycle riding in the mall.

Police said Douglas Gibson of 25 Marion Road lost control of his bicycle trying to avoid a collision with a mother and her baby carriage and crashed through an eight foot by nine foot plate glass window of the Thrift Drug Store. He was treated at the scene and taken by the First Aid Squad to Princeton Medical Center, where nine sutures were used to close a laceration of his left arm. He also sustained an abrasion of the right forearm.

"The boy was lucky; he could have been much more seriously injured," commented Chief Frederick Porter. He said that police had been trying to enforce the ordinance prohibiting bike riding in the mall through the co-operation of youngsters and adults and by periodic checking.

Seeking their co-operation is apparently not the answer, Chief Porter added. "Because of the danger involved," he said that "all patrols will be instructed to enforce the ordinance by issuing summonses to violators.

"I am therefore requesting parents to inform their children of such violations and seriously instruct them not to ride their bicycles in the mall."

The shopping center, he continued, provides bicycle racks. Those who feel that they must keep their bicycles in their possession must "walk" them in the interior mall, Chief Porter concluded.

KIDNAPPER? This is a police composite of a suspect wanted for the alleged abduction of a 13-year-old Mount Lucas girl.

INVESTIGATION MADE

Into Alleged Abduction. Police are actively continuing their investigation of the alleged abduction of a 13-year old Mount Lucas Road girl from her home May 24, according to Chief Frederick Porter.

According to police, the victim was alone around 4:45 in the afternoon that day when a man, posing as a member of some agency, knocked on the door. He pulled a knife and allegedly forced her to accompany him in his car.

They reportedly drove around for approximately eight hours, traveling as far as the Bordentown-Ft. Dix area before he dropped her off at 1:15 in the morning at Jefferson and Mount Lucas Roads. The suspect did not molest the girl at any time, according to police, although he did place his knife at her throat several times and threaten her.

The suspect was described as 6-0 or 6-1 tall, about 25, slender, with stringy blond hair, fair complextion, a big nose and freckles about the face. He was wearing blue jeans, work shoes and a white T-shirt.

The car he was driving was described as an older, cream-colored four-door model with a dent on the driver's side near the rear of the car. The interior was of darker vinyl and the car had a stick shift. In a "Wanted for Kidnapping" bulletin, Township police described the body style as similar to that of an early 1970's Dodge Dart.

Police report progress in the investigation is slow. The suspect allegedly threatened the family if members reported the incident, they said.

Continuing the investigation are Det.-Sgt. Samuel Bianco, Ptl. David Cromwell and Det. Jerry Offredo, the Township juvenile officer.

Joseph R. Saladino, M. D. and J. Anthony Dede, M. D. are pleased to announce that Daniel W. Shapiro, M. D. has joined Delaware Valley OB-GYN Associates, P. A. for the practice of Obstetrics and Gynecology.

PHS GRADUATION SET

Next Monday. Jadwin Gymnasium on the Princeton University campus will reverberate with the traditional sounds of commencement Monday evening as Princeton High School's Class of 1979 receives diplomas.

The graduation ceremonies will begin at 6:30 with Rimsky-Korsakov's "Procession of Nobles" and conclude with the usual "Pomp and Circumstance." In between the graduating seniors and their parents, friends and relatives will sing the "Star Spangled Banner" and the seniors will sing the alma mater one last time together.

Addresses will be made by Mark Yim, the valedictorian; Kharis Powell, salutatorian; and David Amarel, senior class president. The invocation and benediction will be read by the Rev. Nicholas B. Van Dyck.

Members of the Board of Education will join Paul D. Houston, superintendent of schools, and George Petrillo, high school principal, in presenting the diplomas.

Instrumental accompaniment will be provided by the high school commencement band, directed by Anthony Biancosino. Additional sounds are likely to be the blaring automobile horns of happy high school seniors as they return from the ceremony. That, too, is a Princeton High School tradition.

The graduating seniors, with those achieving honors identified, are:

ROBBER IS NABBED

With Aid from Citizens. Calling it a "classic example of citizen participation," Chief Michael Carnevale reported Tuesday how information received from citizens had led to the arrest last week of a burglar.

Gregory Bullock, 29, 25 Leigh Avenue, was arrested last Wednesday afternoon inside an apartment in the Witherspoon-Clay Street area by Sgt. Ralph Procaccino, Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt and Ptl. William Nathan, aided by Township police. Bullock, police said, had in his possession a gold wristwatch, a check made out for $105 to the owner of the apartment and $3.57 at the time of his arrest. All belonged to the owner of the apartment, they said.

After a hearing in which bail was set at $10,000, Bullock was taken to the Mercer county Jail.

Commenting on the arrest, Chief Carnevale said, "Police alone cannot prevent burglaries; they must have the help of citizens." In this particular case, he said, the entry was observed by a passerby who relayed the information to someone else in the area who, in turn, called police.

MAYERS ELECTED

To Chair CATV Group. Morris Mayers has been elected chairman of Princeton's cable television advisory committee at its organizational meeting Monday night.

The group, charged with evaluating what cable television services should be provided to Princeton and how to select a firm to provide those services, will meet again Monday, July 9. The place has not been determined.

Mr. Mayers, of 41 Adams Drive, was also chairman of the committee which reported on the same subject in 1974. He is a trustee of the Friends of New Jersey Public Television.

In the five years since the first report no firm has approached the Princeton governing bodies to apply for a franchise for cable TV. But several neighboring communities have already plunged into cable television.

Eric Greenfeldt, head of the information department at the Public Library and a Borough representative to the committee, predicted that firms might approach Princeton as soon as this fall seeking to apply for the license.

Borough Council President Nelson van den Blink added that, "it is just a matter of time. We want to be prepared."

Of these, 147 were awarded the Master of Divinity, the basic degree in preparation for ministry.

Graduates and their guests were addressed by the Rev. Dr. Daniel C. Thomas, pastor of the Webster Groves, Mo. Presbyterian Church, a member of the Seminary's Class of '44 and of the Board of Trustees. Richard S. McDermott, a member of the student government, representing the graduating class, read the Scripture lesson. The farewell message was delivered by President James I. McCord. Serving as organist with the Seminary Choir was James H. Litton, the Seminary's C.F. Seabrook Director of Music.

At the close of the program, Dr. Bryant M. Kirkland, president of the Board of Trustees, presented to Dr. McCord a stole embroidered with symbols of the Christian faith and of the reformed tradition, as a mark of the trustees' respect and affection.

PLANNERS UPHELD

By Township Committee. Is a "protected lane" a sidewalk? If it is, does the Planning Board have to require a builder to build another sidewalk in keeping with the Township Code when that sidewalk already exists?

These considerations were at the heart of Township Committee's hearing on the Abbot L. Moffat appeal of a Planning Board decision last Wednesday. Mr. Moffat was appealing the Board's failure to require Design Interface to build a sidewalk along the east side of the Great Road from Mountain Avenue to the end of the property it seeks to develop on that corner. This was Mr. Moffat's second appeal of a Planning Board waiver of the sidewalk requirement.

At issue is the Great Road bikepath which, from Mountain Avenue across a small bridge, runs alongside the road but is elevated and separated from it. After the bridge, the bikepath becomes a part of the road, although separated from vehicular traffic by a low concrete barrier with upright poles at intervals.

Mr. Moffat admitted that up until noon of the day of the appeal he felt this protected lane was not a proper sidewalk, and therefore he was justified in insisting that the Planning Board be held to its sidewalk master plan. He also argued that the "protected lane" was considered a temporary measure until the large properties along the route were developed and the road would have to be widened again. At that point, he said, the developers could be expected to construct the sidewalk abutting the property.

Mr. Moffat said he realized at the last moment that the protected lane was indeed a sidewalk because it was off the roadway, and Township Attorney Gordon Griffin agreed with him. But Mr. Moffat, who is a strong proponent for paths to take joggers, bicycle riders and pedestrians out of the way of the motor car, stuck to his point that, "You've got to look forward -- that's the whole purpose of planning."

Christopher Baker, lawyer for Design Interface, said at one point, "We're perfectly willing to install a sidewalk," which caused Mr. Griffin to throw up his hands and say, "They've switched sides!"

Mr. Baker later clarified his position by saying that if the Committee were to support Mr. Moffat's appeal, Design Interface would comply with the sidewalk requirement. The Planning Board had already required an easement along the road.

Pointing out that the proper time to bring up objections is at the Planning Board level, Hugo Hoogenboom moved to affirm the decision of the Planning Board, and the motion was passed unanimously.

In other business Committee discussed ways of amending the Township Code to give the Planning Board greater discretion in the matter of requiring sidewalks and found itself unhappy with the language and the implications of the amendment. Kate Litvak moved to table further discussion of the ordinance until September 5.

Committee also accepted a bid for the reconstruction of Henry Avenue, which came in lower than anticipated and passed an ordinance for the overlay of the Great Road and other roads in the northern section of the Township.

PICNIC PLANNED

By Chinese Language School. The Princeton Chinese Language School will hold its annual end-of-the-year picnic on Saturday at 11:30 in Marquand Park. Anyone interested in the school is welcome to attend the picnic and talk with teachers, students, parents, and members of the Steering Committee.

The Princeton Chinese Language School was founded in January, 1970 by a group of Chinese parents in Princeton who wished to have their children learn basic Chinese in a structured way. Since then, the student body has expanded to include any students who are interested in learning Chinese. The school is affiliated with the Princeton University Chinese Club and the East Asian Studies Deaprtment of the university. The classes meet from 10 to 12 on Saturday mornings in Palmer Lab at Princeton University, and follow the semester schedule of the university.

The Princeton Chinese Language School is a non-profit, non-political institution which teaches Mandarin Chinese and uses the Pin-yin phonetic system. At present, there are 55 children enrolled, and they are taught by seven teachers.

Consolidation Debated.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

There are several points raised in your report (TOWN TOPICS, June 6) on the Joint Consolidation Study Committee meeting that require some answers. Consolidation is now being supported by some members of the committee, but there has yet to be a positive, factual argument advanced in favor of consolidation.

Instead, there seems to be a feeling that since it has been talked about for so long, we might as well go ahead and do it. But for what reason?

Mr. Harry Sayen is reported to maintain that "Princeton is one community" and that one name should mean one town. That opinion takes no account of any tangible, factual aspect of either municipality, but is merely a casual shrug of the shoulders in favor of what could turn out to be a radical alteration of things.

Princeton is in fact two communities with significant differences in terms of history, population density, wealth and municipal character. Some people speak of preserving the "intangibles" of Princeton. But I'm suspicious when such preservation seems to mean just the opposite — changing the nature of Princeton Borough.

The Borough has many tangible aspects that might be lost in consolidation, aspects that derive from its present nature: the almost town-meeting scale of local government, the renter-majority population, the culturally diverse history, with its dense development and small shops — all these are tangible. Yet Mr. Jay Bleiman is reported, in the same article, to have said that "separate Princetons have outlived their historical purpose."

I don't know who could have established a historical "purpose" for the two towns, but I know that I don't want a change in the Borough that would try to turn its back on the very special history of this town, ancient and recent, and thereby turn its back on the problems that face the Borough, as well as the unique pleasures of living here. We need to remain sensitive to what the Borough has been, in order to see what it needs to be in the future.

Let's hear some positive, factual, history - conscious argument for consolidation — and then decide whether it persuades us. The subcommittee reports of the JCSC don't seem to have come up with much of this sort, and if they don't, we shouldn't feel we have to vote for consolidation just because it has been talked about and praised vaguely. Let's not decide the issue on the basis of a mere feeling that one name should mean one town, and that both towns can forget — or should forget — their history.

Teachers View Curriculum.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

At a recent meeting of the Board of Education, the Executive Council of the Princeton Regional Education Association presented a statement concerning the curriculum program in the elementary schools. This statement read, in part, "The Executive Council feels a responsibility at this time to explain to the Board and to the public how the curriculum at the elementary level works. There is a K-5 Mathematics Curriculum Guide, revised June 1977. There is a textbook list of approved texts and a recommended text, "Mathematics Around" (Scott Foresman) for grades 4 and 5. There is a K-5 Science Curriculum Guide, revised in June, 1978.

"A recommended text has been purchased for the entire district: "Science, Understanding Your Environment" by Silver Burdette company. There is K-5 Language Art Curriculum Guide, revised June 1977 with a list of texts approved by the Board. Released time is now being used to create a revised Social Studies Curriculum. Teachers are presently using texts approved by the Board of Education.

"Within the restrictions of the curriculum guides, teachers are expected to be creative in their preseatations and interpretations. They are also expected to take into account the needs peculiar to the particular group which they are teaching. Any other approach leads to mediocrity.

"The person who can support and direct and give useful feedback to the teacher in the interpretation of the curriculum guide has to be knowledgeable and accessible. This role traditionally has been assigned to the principal.

"One of the purposes of supervision in education is to give the necessary direction and feedback to the teacher on how successful he or she has been in fulfilling the guidelines set by the curriculum. It does not make sense to remove this function from the principal and assign it to a third party.

"If the school is not achieving the goals set up by the curriculum guides, the principal should be held accountable. The Superintendent should be held accountable if the district is not successful in implementing the curriculum endorsed by the Board of Education. The proposed reorganization blurs these lines of accountability."

We would like to make an alternate proposal at this time. The Superintendent stated in his press release that "this restructuring should improve the educational quality of this district by addressing several needs." We do not feel that one of the greatest needs of the district has been addressed by this restructuring and resultant higher cost for education. This important need is more opportunities for teachers to work with smaller groups.

In an article in the New York Times, April 10, 1979, Fred Hechinger observed in his discussion of class size that smaller classes have indeed been a factor in increasing pupil achievement, pointing out that his has been the strength of private schools for some time. Further, he says "The question raised by small-class projects is whether those who demand an end to glaring deficiencies in the Three R's are ready to pay for the remedy." We propose that when money becomes available in the district (as in the case of cutting back an assistant principal), it be put toward the goal of creating more opportunities for small group instruction.

In Defense of Cyclists.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The report in the June 6 issue of TOWN TOPICS of a collision between a bicycle and an automobile at the intersection of Washington and Faculty roads follows the general pattern of blaming the cyclist. This pattern will continue until cyclists learn how to organize effectively.

We are told that the driver "was turning left onto Faculty when she noticed the cyclist coming south on Washington Road. When the cyclist failed to slow down, she told the police, she stopped in the intersection to avoid a collision. Miss Smith (the cyclist) was unable to stop and struck the front fender ... There were no charges ..."

Assuming the report accurate, the cyclist had the right of way since both had a green light while the driver was making a left turn. The driver seems to have improperly seized the right of way and the blame is then placed upon the cyclist for having "failed to slow down." Since no charged were placed by the police, we may assume that the cyclist will be pleased with "injuries to legs and possible concussion," since she will not have to explain in court why she dared to get in the way of an AUTOMOBILE.

I do not know if the account is accurate. The author of the account (and the general driving public) seem to be insensitive to the rights of cyclists. The cutting off of cyclists is a standard occurrence and should be emphasized in cyclist safety instruction. Perhaps some day the police will take notice.

PLAN EXPANDED: An enlarged Merchant Alert Plan, designed with the cooperation of police, to apprehend shoplifters and bogus check and credit passers is in operation in the Borough business community. OPENING NEARS

For Savings Bank. New quarters for Princeton's first mutual savings bank neared completion this week as workers finished renovations on the exterior of the building at 180 Nassau Street. E. Jackson Barbee, assistant vice president, said the bank expects to meet its June 30 opening day schedule.

Exterior renovations include replacement of the sidewalk in front of the structure and the alleyway at the side with brick paving. Natural cedar paneling covers the building's side and frames the upper part of the main entrance.

Interior design will be contemporary, Mr. Barbee said, with one wall of the main floor covered with cedar paneling matching that on the building's exterior. The 1,000 square-foot interior will accommodate four teller windows, a vault and security equipment.

Safe deposit facilities include space for approximately 135 boxes. Work is presently under way on interior renovations, the bank executive said.

The building will serve as the newest branch office for the New Jersey Savings Bank, a 108-year-old thrift institution with more than $131 million in assets. Headquartered in Somerville, the bank also has branches in Whitehouse and Basking Ridge. It serves Mercer, Somerset, Hunterdon, Middlesex and Morris counties.

SAVINGS BANK's headquarters at 180 Nassau.

ACQUISITION MADE

By Mathematica Products. GBASWIFT, the teleprocessing monitor developed by GBA International, has been acquired by Mathematica, Inc. in a cash transaction. Other GBA software, consisting of DES (Data Entry Subsystem) and TIPS (Terminal Interactive Programming Subsystem) were included in the purchase.

"The purpose of buying the software," explained Dr. Tibor Fabian, President of Mathematica, "was to complement the RAMIS II system developed and marketed by Mathematica Products Group (MPG)." Mathematica is a technical consulting, policy research, computer software and system design firm.

RENOVATIONS BEGUN

At Princeton Bank. The Princeton Bank has retained the services of The Interior Design Studio at 14 Moore Street to redesign its Nassau Street branch. The renovations, which are currently in progress, will affect the entire main floor as well as the commercial credit department, the safe deposit area and the employees' lunchroom.

Consistent with the new image of Princeton Bank, the color scheme will be monochromatic, in tones of beige and grey. There will be new carpeting, wallcoverings, window treatments and furniture.

Among the changes will be a travertine marble floor, macrame vertical blinds, a semi-circular information desk, and custom-designed check writing desks. The new Princeton Bank logo will be in bronze lettering mounted on the main wall behind the tellers. The downstairs employees' room will have a contemporary lighting system and wall graphic.

The staff at The Interior Design Studio includes Eunice Pat Davis, owner and chief coordinator; Barbara Jeanneret, Wendy Barrie, Linda Perry and Henry Craig. The studio has been working with Arthur Liese of Collins Associates. Renovations are expected to be completed by mid August.

STORE REOPENS

Under New Management. Nassau Street Jazz has reopened under new management after a brief period devoted to redecorating and restocking.

The completely refurbished store, located in the Thompson Realty building at 195 Nassau Street across from Bellows, features rock and disco albums, as well as a selection of records from Europe and Japan. The shop also offers collectors' picture discs and handles all current singles, including 12-inch disco 45s.

The new owners are Jim Allington (who has worked in the store for over a year), Eugene Patricella and Charles Brushe. They have installed a state-of-the-art stereo system, and will play any record on the shelves on request. Nassau Street Jazz will also carry the Yamaha line of musical instruments, including acoustic guitars, brass, woodwinds, guitar amplifiers and electronic sound reinforcement mixers.

MUSIC DIRECTOR NAMED

At Nassau Presbyterian Church. Kenneth B. Kelley has been appointed music director at the Nassau Presbyterian Church.

His appointment marks the first time the church has made the post a full time position. He succeeds the late Mrs. Mary T. Krimmel, who taught organ at Westminster Choir College and was organist and choir director at the church on a part time basis.

Mr. Kelley was born in Ohio and began playing the piano, the French horn and the organ at a young age. He attended Baldwin-Wallace College on a music scholarship and was graduated in 1964 with a bachelor of music degree, having served two churches as organist and choirmaster. He enrolled at Union Theological Seminary in New York City where he directed the choir of James Chapel and earned the master of sacred music degree in 1966.

He has served as minister of music at churches in Flint, Mich., and Champaign, Ill., and most recently at Detroit, Mich., where he conducted nine choirs and directed the entire music program. He was awarded the doctor of musical arts degree from the University of Illinois in 1976 and spent the past year as visiting professor and associate conductor of choral activities at the University of Arizona in Tucson.

BULLETIN NOTES

The officers and members of the First Baptist Church, Paul Robeson Place and John Street, will sponsor a banquet honoring their pastor, the Rev. Edward Smith, on his 16th anniversary. The banquet will be held Saturday at 6:30 at the church. Betty Brown is in charge of the event.

A Christian orchestra is in the process of formation. Dedicated Christian musicians, capable of playing medium to difficult Gospel orchestration, are sought to form a prayer and praise inter-faith orchestra.

The first rehearsal will be on Monday evening, June 25, at 7:30 at the Capital Assembly of God, 1900 Arena Drive, Mercerville. For information call Mr. Neeld, 882-4479 or Miss Boone, 883-8918.

Elsie A. McKee, a Ph.D. candidate at Princeton Theological Seminary, has been awarded a Swiss government grant for graduate study abroad administered by the Institute of International Education through the Fulbright program. Only three such grants were awarded to United States citizens this year.

Miss McKee, a graduate of Hendrix College and the University of Cambridge, will study at the University of Geneva under the care of Dr. P. Fraenkel. The daughter and granddaughter of Presbyterian missionaries to Zaire, she is preparing her dissertation on "Ethical Dimensions of Worship in John Calvin: the Diaconate and Alms."

The summer series of chancel services in Princeton University Chapel will begin on Sunday at 10. The guest preacher will be the Rev. Dennis L. Tarr, academic director of the Center City Campus of Temple University. His sermon topic will be "The Power of Your Touch!"

OLDER THAN THE UNITED STATES

This colonial farmhouse is alive with warmth and atmosphere. The original section has been traced back to at least 1738, and was part of a large section of land granted by the King of England. To this day, the property is still known as King's Grant Farm.

As you enter into the home through the main hallway, the lovely panelled billard room, with built-in bookcases, and family room with huge walk-in fireplace are to your right. To your left is the large living room with fireplace, perfect for entertaining Beyond this is the dining room, also with a fireplace, that could easily seat a dinner party for 30. The huge country kitchen offers lots of cabinet space, and has been completely modernized. The 6 bedrooms and additional 3 baths on the second floor can be easily reached by any of 3 staircases.

The grounds included a greennouse, 3 story barn with separate workshop, 2 storage buildings, pump house and a 20 x 40 inground pool. This exceptional property is presently under farm assessment and is available for purchase with either 94 or 53 acres. Please call for additional details and appointments

LOTS OF ROOM AT THE STABLE! Formerly the stone stable of a great estate, this exquisite one floor house is perhaps the most charming property we have ever had to sell. Its very reminiscent of Old England with a varied exterior of stone, stucco and half timber, and vertical wood siding with a thick cedar shingle roof. An entry way leads to a 17x26 living room with a huge beam cathedral plank ceiling and wide stone fireplace; adjoining through a stone arched doorway is a bar-reception room, a separate dining room and a modern kitchen with exposed stone walls; beyond are two family bedrooms, two baths and a family room with sliding doors to a terrace. Separate from the other bedrooms and three steps up from the entry are a master bedroom, den or guest room and bath. Sited on one plus acres of manicured lawns, rose gardens and flowering shrubs with a large bluestone terrace overlooking all. Two-car separate garage. $225,000

A STEADMAN HOUSE ON MERCER STREET Mr. Steadman would beam could he see the results of the care and love bestowed on one of his architectural gems by this particular family. The rooms themselves plus the decor and furnishings create an elegant ambiance rarely experienced in Princeton. The first floor rooms which have eleven foot ceilings, original moldings and pegged oak floors include two living rooms, both with fireplaces; separate dining room; marvelously planned contemporary kitchen with new appliances and skylight. On the second floor a library with bookshelves and fireplace adjoins the master bedroom also with fireplace and a master bath. On third, three bedrooms, two baths. At a lower level informal sitting room with quarry tile floor and fireplace plus laundry and lavatory. Two-car garage, carefully tended walled garden. All in exquisite condition. Price and more details on request.

A center hall opens to a large living room with fireplace and adjacent slate floored solarium and a gracious formal dining room. The well designed kitchen with custom built cabinets, ceramic tile counter top and no-wax floor has a large family dining area. Cathedral ceiling, panelled walls, large windows, built-ins and a brick fireplace are special features of a roomy den. The family room with built-in wet bar, raised hearth fireplace, sliding glass doors to both the solarium and the enclosed porch and adjoining redwood deck provide a spacious area for entertaining.

There are five rooms and three baths on the second floor. One large bedroom has a separate bath; the spacious master bedroom has a closet lined entry, dressing room and compartmentalized bath and shower. Very large closets, a hall bath and a quietly placed study.

Immaculate wall to wall carpeting throughout the house, a game room, and a hobby room with work counters and cupboards are but a few of the special features of this house.

Two car garage. Two stall barn, tack room and three post and rail fenced paddocks. There are still a few hitching posts left on Nassau Street!

Parents of 'Caesarian Children' Seek to Show the Operation Is Not Major Surgery But Merely a Different Birth Process

The Caesarian Parents Association of Mercer County, organized in January, 1978 by a group of women who had experienced Caesarian childbirth, seeks to change how Caesarians are thought of by society in general and the medical profession in particular.

"We want to help everyone overcome the idea that having a Caesarian is major surgery and to think instead of it as a birth," says Mrs. Janet Richards of Yardville, recently named president of the organization. "So often the baby part of it is overlooked," she thinks.

One of the goals of the group is to make a Caesarian child birth "an optimum experience," according to Sandra Godfrey of 6 Madison Street, who with Lynn Park of Patton Avenue was one of the founders of the association.

Mrs. Richards points out that many parents today are interested in family-centered births, with the husband in the delivery room, "bonding" of the baby to the mother within minutes of the birth and visits by siblings during the hospital stay. These options ought also to be available to parents whose baby is born by a Caesarian, she thinks.

A Support Group. Because of the popularity of Lamaze classes, more couples are prepared for a shared experience in the birth of their baby and have high expectations about the birth, Mrs. Richards points out. If it turns out that a Caesarian is necessary, many women feel a keen sense of disappointment, even of failure, she says.

A primary purpose of the Caesarian Parents Association is to offer support and education to its members. There are support meetings held once a month at one another's homes and a telephone support network organized throughout the area. The group also maintains a file of information on all aspects of the topic and has prepared a sheet of information on the indications for a Caesarian and what to expect before and after the birth, as well as a sheet of suggestions for a family-centered birth.

Princeton Medical Center has instituted a two-session class in Caesarian birth and also allows fathers in the operating room in certain instances. Princeton also lets the mother have the baby with her in the recovery room. At some hospitals, such as Hunterdon Medical Center, a Caesarian delivery takes place in the maternity wing rather than in the surgical wing, a concept which this group endorses.

Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Godfrey would like to see all prospective parents take advantage of a class in Caesarian birth so that they know what to expect if one is indicated. If a mother knew, for instance, that it is customary to keep a Caesarian-born baby in isolation for 24 hours after the birth because of the greater risk of infection, the mother would worry less about something being wrong with her baby, Mrs. Richards thinks.

Options Are Important. A mother should also know, she suggests, that nursing is possible and even desirable to help overcome the feelings of unwomanliness and failure that Caesarian mothers frequently experience. Rooming in is another of the options that Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Godfrey feel a mother should be able to have if she wants it.

As they discuss childbirth and options, the two are careful to use the term "vaginal" birth instead of "regular" or "normal" birth. Too many Caesarian mothers have been crushed, they think, by someone–usually a female relative–saying to them, "Too bad you'll never experience a normal birth," and they want to counteract this feeling. Actually the Caesarian Parents Association believes that a vaginal delivery is possible in some cases after a Caesarian birth. The support meeting this week featured Dr. Estrella Poblete, a Trenton obstetrician, speaking on this subject.

The group gave its first public presentation in early May at the Family Infant Resource Center, which has its headquarters in the Princeton United Methodist Church. The group is in the process of acquiring the slides on "A Family Centered Caesarian Birth" which were shown on that occasion and will be able to make them available for other classes and meetings.

According to Mrs. Richards, the number of Caesarian births have increased in recent years as they have become safer and more routinely recommended for certain conditions. She cites a Lamaze class in which four of the eight couples participating eventually had a Caesarian birth.

If that is so, the Caesarian Parents Association will be ready to help all Caesarian parents better understand it and to be supported throughout their birth experience.

–Barbara L. Johnson

SUPPORT FOR CAESARIAN PARENTS: Sandra Godfrey (left), her daughter Jessica and Janet Richards are involved in the Caesarian Parents Association of Mercer County. Mrs. Godfrey is one of the founders, Mrs. Richards has just been named president and Jessica knows that it all has something to do with her entrence into the world.

University Nearing Final Selection Of Management to Run Playhouse

Princeton University officials are continuing discussions with a number of potential booking agents, in hopes of soon turning the lights back on at Palmer Square's Playhouse Theater.

The Playhouse shut down on March 31, after the University said that the Sameric Corporation defaulted on payments for its lease of the Playhouse, as well as on its lease of the Garden Theater. Palmer Square Inc., the University-controlled company which oversees operations in the square, has released Sameric from its Playhouse lease. Sameric, in turn, has agreed to meet all overdue payments on the Garden lease and will continue to operate that theater.

Now the University and Palmer Square have formulated plans for the continued operation of the Playhouse until such time that the proposed expansion of Palmer Square requires that the building be demolished.

News Of The THEATRES

"Our concept has been reasonably well spelled out," said Michael J. Feldman, assistant treasurer of the University. Several people are interested in trying to run the theater along the lines proposed — "It's a matter of us deciding with whom we want to do it," said Mr. Feldman.

The concept for the Playhouse is to book "second run, repertory, and festival-type films," according to the assistant treasurer. "It would be an alternative to the existing programming" at other movie houses.

This Is a Test. "We look at it as a test," continued Mr. Feldman, to determine if this concept "gives the community what it wants and if it is economically viable." That judgment, he said, would have to be made in view of the fact that the 1,200-seat Playhouse "is really a white elephant, economically," and that the new operation would be an interim one, with a limited amount of time for promotion.

If it succeeds considering those limitations, "we may include something like this in the plans for the expanded square," Mr. Feldman said.

Until April Princeton had been a two-theater town ever since 1924, when the Garden Theatre was built. Some area movie fans predicted trouble several years ago, when the University arranged the leases with Sameric. A group of moviegoers formed a committee to protest the action, and charged that Samerica's policy of bringing in first-run films for lengthy durations was not consistent with the Princeton community's eclectic tastes.

The University contended at the time that only a large commercial chain such as Sameric could successfully operate the town's movie houses.

Deja Vu. That contention has proved incorrect. The rejected arguments of the protest group now sound much like the University's current plans for the Playhouse.

The new, interim operation, Mr. Feldman observed, "may help us determine if all that screaming of yesteryear can be substantiated. If it can, despite the limitations of the big theater and short notice, then we may finally take the cue from that group and move ahead."

SUMMER INTIME XII

The producers of this year's season are Steven Condiotti, a senior at Princeton and business manager of Theatre Intime, and Dale Coye, a four-year veteran of the Intime stage most recently seen in last summer's "The Mousetrap" and as director of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Patience." The company consists of members from all parts of the country, including directors John Whitesell (Circle in the Square) and Alan Langdon (director of Graduate Studies at the University of Oklahoma).

Last summer's Intime schedule included two consistent sell-outs: "Match Play," a drama by Princeton playwright -- and TOWN TOPICS reviewer – William McCleery; and "The Mousetrap."

COUNTRY MUSIC COMING

To Stadium on June 23. The Princeton Country Music Festival, a nine-hour jamboree featuring ten country music acts, including Roy Clark, The Oakridge Boys, Larry Gatlin and The Earl Scruggs Revue, will be presented on Saturday, June 23 in Palmer Stadium.

The day-long concert will begin at 10 and continue until approximately 7. The event is billed as the largest outdoor country music festival in the northeast this year. Other performers will be Con Huoley, Janie Fricke, Hoyt Axton, Mary K. Miller, Rex Allen, Jr. and Kelly Warren.

Roy Clark is considered one of the industry's most versatile instrumentalists, singers and comedians. Clark, who recently starred in his own network television special, plays nine instruments, including the guitar, 12-string acoustic, banjo and fiddle, and was named Instrumentalist of the Year by the Country Music Association (CMA) in 1977 and 1978.

The Oak Ridge Boys won two CMA awards this year for Album of the Year and Top Vocal Group. For the past five years, they have dominated the country and have won top accolades from Cash Box, Record World, Billboard and Radio & Records.

Larry Gatlin, a 1976 Grammy Award winner for Best Country Song ("Broken Lady"), is the fastest growing star among male performers in the country music field. An established composer of country music songs, Gatlin turned to performing just four years ago and in that short span of time has appeared on numerous television specials in the United States, Canada and Great Britain. He has had three Top Ten albums in that period.

The Earl Scruggs Revue, formed eight years ago, is one of the most successful country music bands in the nation. The focus of the group is the venerable Earl Scruggs, the uodisputed king of the five-string banjo and author of the Grammy Award winning "Foggy Mountain Breakdown" -- the anthem of bluegrass music and banjo pickers everywhere. Others in the group are Earl's three sons, Gary, Randy and Steve, and Taylor Rhoades, who is Randy's brother-in-law.

Tickets for the festival will cost $12.50 each at Palmer Stadium on the day of the event. Reduced price tickets are available in advance for $10.50 each at all Ticketron outlets, and through the mail by writing to: The Princeton Country Music Festival, P.O. Box 319, New Milford, N.J. 07646.

ONE SHOW ONLY

For Ian Cabaret, Princeton's music and comedy revue, is in rehearsal for its special Friday, June 22 show in the Prince William Room of the Nassau Inn. The show -- the only scheduled appearance of the Cabaret this summer -- will have performances at 8:30 and 10:30 p.m.

Performers featured on the 22nd will be Suzie Bertin, Joe Bolster, Roo Brown, Julie Denny, Liz Fillo, Jim Hopkins, and Brent Monahan. Peter Wright will be at the piano, with Steve Fillo on bass; costumes are by Marie Miller, lighting is by Richard Backes. Musical director is Roo Brown, choreographer is Joan Lucas, and Dan Berkowitz is director and emcee.

In addition to the musical numbers and original comedy pieces being planned, the troupe is hard at work on the closing segment, which they hope will be a highlight of the show. "When we did our last show at the Inn in January, we ended the show with several numbers from "Jacques Brel" that we'd done at the Cabaret before," said director Berkowitz.

THE FUN COUPLE IS BACK: Liz Fillo and Dan Berkowitz will be appearing in the special June 22 Inn Cabaret at the Nassau Inn, the only show of the summer.

"The response was so fantastic that we've decided to do the same sort of thing for this show -- except that we'll be using a whole different set of songs, including some that cabaret-goers may never have heard before." The "Jacques Brel" segment will feature Berkowitz, Suzie Bertin, Roo Brown, Liz Fillo, and Brent Monahan, with special choreography by Joan Lucas.

For information on remaining tickets, call 921-7273 from 6 to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Bar service is available throughout the shows.

SERIES TO OPEN

With Bunuel, Bergman. McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema '79 season at air-conditioned Kresge Auditorium on the Princeton campus will open on Wednesday, June 20, with a double feature. The two films are Luis Bunuel's "Tristana" and Ingmar Bergman's "The Magic Flute."

The Bunuel-Bergman combination, the first of ten weekly double-features scheduled for this summer, will play nightly through Sunday, June 24. Kresge Auditorium is located in Frick Chemical Building, at the corner of Washington Road and William Street, with plentiful free parking available in nearby University lots.

"Tristana" finds Spain's master director full of his customary contempt for the hypocrisies by which we all live. Catherine Deneuve plays a young, innocent girl who becomes the mistress of her aging, corrupt guardian (Fernando Rey). She then proceeds to destroy him, first with an artist, then with a deaf-mute boy, and finally, by herself. Made in 1970, when Bunuel was 70, and filmed in Toledo, "Tristana" is perhaps the most "Spanish" of all his films, full of irony and farcical sobriety.

"The Magic Flute" is Bergman's screen adaptation of the Mozart opera, a "tour de force" for the great Swedish director replete with sing-along effects and all the wonders of the Temple of Wisdom explored. Bergman has cut Mozart's original, condensed its confusing libretto, and turned everything into an exuberant pageant. The film is photographed in color by his longtime associate, Sven Nykvist, and sung in Swedish by singers who both look and sound right.

Bergman's love for "The Magic Flute" is both

MOSQUITO CONTROL: CLEAN UP DEBRIS AND ELIMINATE WATER POCKETS

with Sem deTuro
Woodwinds Associates

Mosquito control should begin in spring with the elimination of all refuse around the home grounds, and the eradication of pockets that could hold as little as a teaspoon of water for 9 to 10 days. That's all the time and water needed for mosquito breeding purposes.

Even crotches on such trees as Elm and Beech should be cleaned out and filled to prevent water collecting in them to serve as mosquito breeding places.

Mosquitos can breed in the axils of some plant leaves, in clogged rain gutters, empty cans and other litter in vacant lots. Cleanup of such debris should be on a community basis.

Aeration of ponds in the suburbs, as well as spraying with proper insecticides, reduces mosquito infestations. Intakes and outflows from such ponds should be kept free so that there is a flow of water.

Spraying before a lawn party could be effective in combatting mosquitos, but a sudden shift of wind could bring in mosquitos from miles around. Some mosquitos can fly 15 miles on thier own wing-power, and may be carried by winds equally far.

SHAKESPEARE IN THE PARK: Sir John Falstaff, played by Tom Moffit, clowns with Mistress Quickly (Carol Lacrosse) during the tavern scene in "Henry IV, Part I." Shakespeare '70 Inc. will present this comedy at the Open Air Theatre in Washington Crossing State Park on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

protective and illuminating, full of spirit, reverence, and understanding, and the fulfillment of one of his lifelong dreams. It is a stirring testament to the fact that opera-on-film can indeed work, provided that the presiding genius is someone like Ingmar Bergman.

On Wednesday, Thursday, and Sunday evenings, "Tristana" will be shown at 7:30, followed by "The Magic Flute" at 9:15. On Friday and Saturday, the respective times will be 8 and 9:45. Single admission to the double-feature is $3, but a ten-ticket coupon book to the entire Summer Cinema '79 season is still available from the McCarter Theatre box office for only $20.

The box office is open from 12 to 5, Monday through Saturday, 921-8700. Coupon books and single tickets may be purchased at the door one hour before screening. Summer Cinema '79's second program, from Wednesday, June 27, through Sunday, July 1, will pair Woody Allen's "Sleeper" with Stanley Kubrick's "2001: A Space Odyssey."

SHAKESPEARE IN PARK

Opens Thursday. The verbal magic and bawdy wit of William Shakespeare's classic comedy--drama "Henry IV, Part 1" (Falstaff) will be brought to the stage of the Open Air Theatre at Washington Crossing State Park, Route 29 in Titusville. The show will have three performances, Thursday through Saturday at 8:30 with a rain date on Sunday.

The production is presented by the Shakespeare '70 company which is returning to the park for the 10th season. The company is funded in part by a grant from the Mercer County Cultural and Heritage Commission.

"Henry IV" is under the direction of John F. Erath, professor of English at Trenton State College who specializes in Shakespeare, Renaissance and Restoration Drama. Gerald E. Guarnieri is producing and designing the production with costumes designed by Gail Erath and executed by Rosemarie Foris.

"Henry IV" is a combination of history and comedy which follows the adventures of Prince Hal, the dashing man-about-London-turned-hero, who will be played by Carl Wallnau of Yardley, and the comic antics of Sir John Falstaff, played by Tom Moffit of Trenton. Andrew Hornyak of Trenton will appear as King Henry, and Peter Sterman of Titusville will be seen as Hotspur. Trenton State College professor Lee Harrod of Hopewell will play Thomas Percy, Colin Jenel of Yardley appears as Sir Richard Vernon and Colleen Smith of Lambertville will be seen as Lady Mortemer.

Tickets at the Open Air Theatre are $3 for adults and $1.50 for children and are available at the box office on the evening of the performance.

SUMMER CONCERTS SET

By Choir College. The Westminster Summer Session series of concerts will begin on Sunday with an Art Song Festival of five consecutive recitals for the public by internationally known stars. The festival has been coordinated by Dalton Baldwin who will also be the accompanist for the singers.

In conjunction with Summer Session Workshops at Westminster, members of the faculty and special artists will also appear in concerts which are all open to the public. There is no charge for any of the programs except those on the Art Song Festival in June, the Piano Festival in July and for reserved tickets for the Berlioz "Requiem," conducted by Robert Shaw on July 27. For tickets call the Summer Session office, 924-7416.

There will be five "Summer Sings" to which the public may come and "sing along" with those on campus. These events on June 26, July 3, 10, 24 and 31 will be led by different conductors each week. There is no charge and scores will be provided.

On July 9, 23, and 30, musician-hymnologist-clergyman Erik Routley will lead three hymn-sings. Dr. Routley is internationally known in this field and conducts "sings" with musicality, scholarship and wit.

SONG FESTIVAL PLANNED

At Choir College. The sixth annual Art Song Festival will be held at Westminster Choir College from Sunday through Thursday, June 21, with concerts in Bristol Chapel each evening which will be open to the public.

Information is available through the Summer Session office at 924-7416. Tickets are $5, or $20 for a subscription, and may be purchased at the door. The Festival will be international in character with songs of German, French, Spanish, Italian, Japanese and American origin in Classic, Romantic and Modern style.

French baritone Gerard Souzay will begin the festival with a recital of French song on Thursday at 8. Songs by Poulenc, Chausson, Faure, Debussy, Caplet will be included in his program. Mr. Souzay's current recording releases include the complete songs of Poulenc and Faure, and he will end his program with Ravel's "Chansons Madecasses" for which he was recently awarded the Grand Prix du Disque.

The second recital will be given Monday by baritone Max von Egmond, born in the Dutch East Indies, but educated in the Netherlands. He is known particularly for his interpretation of Baroque lieder which will be his focus of this program with songs by Caccini, Bach, Handel, Schutz and Henry Purcell.

Margarita Zimmermann, a mezzo-soprano from Argentina, will open her program with Spanish songs by de Falla and Granados on Tuesday and conclude it with a group of Russian songs by Rachmaninoff, Rubinstein, and Tschaikowski for which she is famous. On Wednesday, June 20, Margareta Haverinen, soprano, and Heikki Keinonen, baritone, will present a program of Scandinavian songa by several Finnish composers including Sibelius and a group of Grieg Lieder in Norwegian.

Elly Ameling, one of the best known of singers of art song literature, will conclude the festival on June 21 with a program of Brahms, Schubert, Purcell, Scarlatti and the "Frauenliebe und Leben" of Robert Schumann. A program by the American tenor, Paul Speery, and a program of Japanese art songs will be presented in the afternoons at the festival. All will be organized by Dalton Baldwin who has been working on the arrangements to coordinate the artists for this festival for more than two years.

TENOR TO BE HEARD

In Recital at Westminster. Lyric tenor Paul Sperry will give a recital entitled "Songs of Love and War" as part of the International Art Song Festival at Westminster Choir College on Tuesday at 1. The program will include various folksong settings by composers from the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries as Haydn, Beethoven, Brahms, Britten, Ravel, Kodaly, Respighi and Rimsky-Korsakov.

As one of today's leading recitalists, Sperry's repertoire is unusually diverse, including songs, chamber works and oratorios in a dozen languages. Sperry learned the art of song interpretation from such masters as Jennie Tourel, Gerard Souzay and Pierre Bernac.

Highly acclaimed recitals in America and Europe by Paul Sperry prompted one music critic to note that "it wouldn't have been surprising, had Speery lived a century ago, to find the likes of Schubert, Schumann and Wolf dedicating songs to him." Indeed, Paul Sperry's remarkable ability to communicate poetic and musical ideas has inspired some of today's leading composers, such as Hans Werner Henze, Bruno Maderna and William Bolcom to compose especially for him.

IT'S NEW To Us

A FAVORITE GIFT for fathers is this summer-weight madras jacket shown by Eric Mihan of The English Shop. The store has many other summer classics by well-known makers including slacks, sport shirts, golf sweaters and jackets, raincoats, robes, swimming trunks, Bermuda shorts, dress shirts, suits and ties that would make welcome gifts on Father's Day, June 17.

CLASSICS FOR FATHER

From the English Shop. The English Shop, noted for the excellent quality of its classic clothes, has an extensive stock of menswear, sports clothes and furnishings that would make ideal gifts for Father's Day, June 17. Summer favorites include slacks, sports shirts, golf sweaters and jackets, raincoats, robes, dress shirts, suits and ties. A hospitable and experienced staff will assist you with sizes and selections.

Sports Shirts and Slacks. Knit sport shirts in collar and placket styles are cotton lisle in solid colors and narrow stripes of red, green, or navy with white, $16; and Lacoste's alligator classic in cotton, which has a long back tail and comes in a rainbow of colors, $20.

Dacron and cotton knits can be found in tiny seersucker stripes of blue, red or yellow with white, $18; or narrow horizontal stripes in several color combinations, $16.50. Sizes are s-xl; Lacoste's shirt s-xxl.

Tailored summer sport shirts are gingham checks, polka dots, madras and solids by Sero, Hathaway and MacClure, s-xl, $20-$25. A new shipment of long-sleeved shirts from Woolrich includes the chamois shirt in solid colors with an extra long tail, $21.50, and cotton flannel shirts in traditional plaids, $18, both ideal for campers; s-xl.

Colorful slacks for casual wear are offered in a wide choice of fabrics--cotton, polyester and polyester blends in madras, patchwork madras, plaids, tattersalls and bright summer solids, including the popular white ducks. Waist sizes 30-44, priced $27-$50.

Golf Sweaters and Jackets. Lacoste's V-neck pullovers and cardigans of washable orlon, in the attractive links knit, are available in the same fashion colors as their alligator sport shirts. Pullover $23.50; cardigan $25. Golf jackets by London Fog in yellow, navy or camel are unlined and washable, sizes 38-46, $32. A golf jacket imported from England has a contrasting plaid lining, and comes in sizes 38-46 in camel or navy, $60.

Raincoats and Parka. A basic, unlined raincoat, from London Fog and Gleneagles, crisply tailored in cotton and dacron poplin, has split raglan sleeves and a button fly front; oyster or British tan in short, regular or long, $75. A hooded jacket by Woolrich for boating and camping, sells the year round. Known as the 60-40 parka, it has a cotton and nylon shell and seven pockets, including a game-type pocket on the back for storing a down vest. Navy, slate blue, dark green and tan with contrasting linings in sizes xs-xl, $59.50.

Sport Coats. The summer weight blazer in a wool and dacron hopsack weave is very much in demand for its classic style, comfort and wrinkle-resistance: navy, light blue, camel, dark green, kelly green and soft green, $135. The traditional seersucker jacket in cotton-polyester by Haspel is offered in tan or blue, $95. Other summer favorites are cotton madras, and plaids and patterns in cotton and dacron. Jacket sizes are short, regular, long and extra long, $90-$145.

Washable Robes. Three styles of robes include a dacron and cotton robe with shawl collar in blue with navy piping that packs in very little space, $33.50, and a shawl-collared cotton seersucker in blue or red, $37.50. A kimono in terry velours with three-quarter sleeves makes a perfect after-shower robe; kelly, gold, chocolate, dark green, burgundy, light blue, royal or champagne, $42.50. All robes come in sizes s-xl.

Swim Trunks and Shorts. Swim trunks are presented in many styles and fabrics such as cotton madras, fast-drying gingham checks in dacron and cotton, and navy with a red feature stripe in cotton polyester. Waist sizes 32-42, $16.50-$27.50. Cargo shorts from Woolrich for camping, hiking, or bicycling are tan or blue poplin with five pockets, $15. Bermuda shorts are cotton and dacron plaids and solids, cotton and dacron seersucker in traditional and shorter lengths and all cotton madras. Waist sizes 30-42, $15-$29.

Suits. Classic summer suits by Haspel in cotton-polyester blends are tan poplin and blue and white seersucker with lightweight, unlined jackets, $120; with vests $145. Tropical weight suits in wool-polyester blends are usually three pieces in conservative business looks such as pin stripes and glen plaids in gray, blue, dark brown or slate, $195-$395.

Dress Shirts and Ties. Cotton dress shirts with button-down collars and dacron and cotton dress shirts with button-down or plain collars are available with long or short sleeves in pastels and quiet stripes. Both are made by Sero and Hathaway. Floral print ties from Liberty of London are fresh, colorful patterns, $11; silk shantung appears in summer striped patterns and solids, $10; and an appealing polyester tie with green frogs on a navy background is $8.50.

The English Shop, 32-40 Nassau Street, is owned by the Mihan family. Store hours are 9-6 Monday through Thursday, 9-9 Friday, 9-5:30 Saturday.

varieties of nursery stock and many unusual specimens include landscape-sized trees and shrubs. A complete landscaping service provides design, construction, planting and maintenance and can also create a garden atmosphere for interiors such as the oasis of beauty seen annually at the Wellesley Antique Show.

The Garden Center. An array of garden tools can be found at the Garden Center, such as True Temper's spades, cultivators, hoes and weed whips and a grate hoe, made in Austria, used to strip off sod. Pruning tools are telescoping tree pruners, pruning saws and pruning shears, including Felco's shears, made in Switzerland, which can be used without fatigue and have replaceable parts, $24; other from $6.25

A slender trombone sprayer, made of brass, is very easy to use and maintain, $20. Hudson sprayers for lawns and trees, and lawn sprinklers and hoses by Rain Bird and Nelson are also stocked.

Lawn and garden products, proved effective through Kale's landscaping experience, include Ortho's line of herbicides, pesticides and fertilizers. Spectrum's insect and weed controls and Bonide's systemic granules are stocked. Easy-to-use spray bottles of insecticides kill red spiders, mites, white flies and mealy bugs on house plants.

Other supplies are vermiculite, pearlite, potting soil, a potting mixture for African violets, gypsum for loosening heavy soil, granular limestone for balancing the pH factor in lawns and Espoma's fertilizers.

The Garden Center has a variety of planters: redwood window boxes and octagonal tubs, plastic or clay pots, oak barrels cut in half, and imported ceramic pots up to 23" in diameter, some with ornamental relief. Strawberry jars can be purchased planted or unplanted. Custom planters for specific requirements can be designed and made by Kale's.

Hanging baskets with variegated green and white leaves--spider plants, wandering jew and bridal veil--look cool and refreshing. House plants such as Schefflera, rubber plant, Spathe Flower or Saddle Leaf philodendron are attractive greenery for porches and interiors. Flowering bulbs--dahlias, gladiolas, lillies, tuberous begonias and cannas--can be planted now for spectacular summer bloom outdoors.

Garden Plants. A large selection of annuals and perennials for sun and shade, and a variety of vegetables are offered. Herbs for seasoning and salads are thyme, parsley, marjoram, sage, lavender, orange mint, lemon balm and others. A collection of wildflowers includes lady slippers, trilliums, jack-in-the-pulpit and a dozen varieties of native, hardy ferns.

Ground covers consist of pachysandra, vinca, ajuga and English ivy. Ornamental vines are clematis, wisteria, climbing hydrangea, fleece vine, trumpet creeper, gold flame honeysuckle and bittersweet.

Nursery Stock. Kale's has an excellent selection of the well-known varieties of trees and shrubs and many exotic varieties, such as espaliered Hollywood juniper, weeping Norway spruce and the Bloodgood variety of Japanese maples. Larger landscape-sized shrubs such as vibernums and rhododendrons, and large trees--white pines, hemlocks, birches, Bradford Callery pears and shade trees--are a specialty at Kale's, providing a finishing touch to landscaping and in some cases, instant screening.

Kale's purchases specimen trees from nurseries and private residences all along the east coast; an outstanding example is the perfect weeping Threadleaf Japanese Maple with lacy dark red foliage, 40 years old, looking like a large example of Bonsai.

Broadleaf evergreens include the VanVeen hybrid rhododendrons in white, red, pink and lavender shades, hybrid azaleas of pink, orange or flame red, mountain laurel, Japanese andromeda, boxwood and holly, English boxwood and American holly. Yews of all types and junipers from ground cover size to tree size are also available. Shade trees can be purchased in every size from small to very large, fruit trees from Stark Brothers are premium quality, and ornamental trees include a Kousa dogwood, 20 feet tall with a ball five feet across, which grew from seed planted by Mr. Kale's father 15 years ago.

THE GARDEN CENTER at Kale's Nursery and Landscape Service is a background for Douglas Kale, owner, who shows us an 18 ft. Pyramidal European Birch, one of the many landscape-sized trees available for residential or commercial settings. Kale's has plants for every purpose--flowers and vegetables for gardens, bedding or borders, houseplants and hanging baskets and a large selection of nursery stock.

Landscaping Service. Landscaping has been a very important part of Kale's business since 1956. They have established a reputation for professional design, quality workmanship and superior planting materials adapted to the personal requirements of each client. Homeowners are encouraged to begin their landscaping with a comprehensive design that can be carried out in stages. Landscape architects Herb Sensi and Bob Toth are eminently qualified to present a plan that includes landscape construction--terraces, walks, retaining walls and drainage systems--and installation of lawns, shrubs and trees, maintenance services such as fertilizing, weed and insect control, and pruning and snow removal.

Kale's Nursery and Landscape Service is at 133 Carter Road. Bob Cucci is the business manager and A.R. Willey is the manager of the garden center. Hours are 9-5:30 Monday through Saturday and 10-4 Sunday.

Thomas Melsbury

DIRECTOR NAMED

For Athletics at PDS. Thomas Malsbury has been appointed acting director of the boys' physical education and athletic department at Princeton Day School. He replaces Alan Taback, who has resigned as director to devote full time to teaching physical education at PDS. Taback, who has served in that position since 1970 when he joined the school, was instrumental in developing and strengthening the athletic and physical education programs. He also has been coach of the boys' varsity basketball team and the girls' varsity soccer team, both of which activities he plans to continue. Before joining PDS, Taback was a teacher at Allentown High School where he had Malsbury and his wife, Cynthia, as students.

SPORTS In Princeton

Malsbury has been at PDS for three years as trainer and physical education teacher. He came to PDS from Princeton High School where he was head athletic trainer. A 1972 graudate of West Chester State College in Pennsylvania, he earned his master's degree at the University of Arizona in Tucson, majoring in health, physical education and recreation.

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to You by John Bernard

Here's an interesting puzzler ... How can a batter in baseball have 11 pitches thrown to him during one time at bat -- with none of them being fouls -- AND STILL REMAIN AT BAT? ... Here's the answer ... The batter comes up with 2 out and a man on first, and gets a count of 3 and 2 ... Then the runner at first is picked off, ending that inning ... The same batter would lead off the next inning with what is officially still considered the same time at bat, and again runs the count to 3 and 2, then gets ball 4 – thus giving him 11 pitches, with no fouls, in one time at bat.

I bet you didn't know ... that mortgage insurance is very inexpensive life insurance.

What was the longest auto race ever held? ... It wasn't anything like 500 miles or even 1,000 ... The world record was a special duration auto race in Paris in 1933 that lasted 133 days, from March to July ... By the time the drivers had finished going around the track for 133 days, they had covered over 185,000 miles!

Here's an amazing fact ... The Dodgers have now played in the National League 73 consecutive years without finishing in last place ... Last time the Dodgers finished in last place was 1905.

Herrontown Circle, Christopher R. Sparrow, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank A. Sparrow of Bayberry Road, and Robert T. Littell, son of Mrs. Constance Fleming of Bedens Brook Road, Skillman, were named to the New Jersey All-State Lacrosse First Team. All were members of the Lawrenceville School Varsity Lacrosse team which finished the season with a 15-1 record and were runners-up in the state private school championships.

In addition, Budd and Sparrow were named to the All American Lacrosse team. Budd, with a total of 25 goals and 56 assists for 81 points, set a new Lawrenceville record for scoring. Sparrow had a total of 77 points and was named by the school newspaper as the Athlete of the Year.

A LOOK AT 1980

For Peter Sharpless. By now 6-8 has become routine. What has eluded Princeton High School sophomore high jumper Peter Sharpless is 6-10.

But Sharpless, who has ended a formidable first year in jumping, has greater things than 6-10 in mind. He is convinced he can clear seven feet and is aiming for 7-2.

In the NJSIAA Meet of Champions held Thursday at Palmer Stadium, Sharpless sailed over the bar at 6-8 on his first try to finish second to Milt Goode of Monmouth Regional. Goode set a record of 7-1, breaking the previous mark of 7-0 set in 1978 by March Holland of Ocean Township.

Sharpless then missed all three attempts at 6-10. He had hoped to better the 6-9 state sophomore record in the high jump but he was far from discouraged by his 6-8 finish.

He pointed out that he has time for new records next year and is already thinking of topping Goode's 7-1. He sees himself as the man to beat in the high jump in next year's state competition. "After all," he said, "I never jumped before this year."

If his second year is anything like his first, Peter Sharpless may find himself ahead of schedule.

being named to the All-State lacrosse team.

Tom Lion, attack, was named to the second team and middy Tom Bolster received honorable mention. Flippin led the team in the number of goals with 27 — he had five assists — while Lion was the top point scorer with 19 goals and 20 assists.

PHS coach Bill Cirullo described Cooke as a "super lacrosse player, a standout. I said from the beginning that he is a premier defenseman." Cooke, who started on the PHS varsity the past three years, will play next for Penn State.

Flippin will attend Princeton University, Bolster St. Lawrence and Lion will go to Lawrenceville School for a year as a post-graduate student.

Placing two on the first team was the best showing ever for PHS. "I was hoping these four would make it," commented Cirullo. "I think the system worked this time."

Cirullo and PHS had one last chance to carry the Little Tiger name. Cooke, Flippin, Bolster, Lion and Jeff Russell were named from PHS to the south team in the first annual North-South all-star game played Saturday in Montclair to raise money for scholarships for the two children of the late Gil Gibbs, the outstanding and popular coach at Montclair, who died last year at 40.

The game was sponsored by the Montclair Booster Club and the N.J. Lacrosse Association and sanctioned by the NJSIAA.

Cirullo was honored by being selected by other coaches to coach the southern team.

Three PHS players accounted for almost half of the South's 11 goals. Flippin and Bolster each had two, while Lion added one. Cooke was named the Most Valuable Player on the South team.

Although South led most of the game, reported Cirullo, the North tied it with four minutes left and scored the winning goal with about 2:50 to play for a 12-11 victory. "We had the ball at the end but just couldn't put it in the cage," lamented Cirullo.

"It was a great game," Cirullo commented. "A great finale. What a pleasure it was being able to coach a great group of kids like that."

LAPIDUS DOUBLE WINNER

In Tennis. Princeton's Jay Lapidus won the national 21 singles and doubles championships held last week in Corpus Christi, Texas.

Playing with a sprained ankle that had to be taped before every match, Lapidus, the number one singles player on the Princeton University team, swept through the singles competition without losing a single set. He defeated Jai DiLouie of Southern Methodist in the finals, 6-3, 6-2.

Lapidus, a member of the Junior Davis Cup team (comprised of the 12 top collegiate players in the country) then teamed with fellow JDC member Robert Van't Hopt of the University of Southern California to capture the doubles title. In the finals, they defeated DiLouie and Juan Farrow of St. Louis, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5.

Lapidus, 20, is presently in Paris representing the United States on the men's team ILTA International Cup. The team is comprised of four members – two under 35, two over. Sixteen nations compete.

On Sunday, he will travel to London to compete as a qualifier for Wimbledon. One-hundred twenty-eight are vying for the 16 spots left open for qualifiers in the 128 main draw of Wimbledon.

Lapidus is the son of Mrs. Leon Lapidus of Lambert Drive and the late Prof. Lapidus. He will enter his junior year at Princeton in the fall.

POST 76, EAGLES LEAD

In PYBA League. After the first week of play in the Princeton Youth Baseball League, Post 76 and Eagles lead with 2-0 records.

Post 76 started in impressive fashion, defeating last year's champion, Roma Eterna, 8-2, and Italian - American, 10-8. Against Roma, winning pitcher Peter Kellogg had a triple and two singles, Keith Webber socked a triple with the bases loaded and Scott Fisher and Scott McNair each connected for a double. Dino D'Angelo took the loss.

Eddie Perna and Fisher then combined on the mound to lead Post 76 over the Sportsmen, striking out 14. McNair homered and Kellogg tripled for the victors, while John Bolster and Tom Foltini led Italian - American at the plate.

The Eagles won their first two, as Mike Petrone stopped Engine Company No. 1 with the aid of Eddie Eccles' bat and Eccles fashioned an 8-5 win over the Elks. He received support from Petrone and Andy Lippman.

Engine Company No. 3 defeated the Elks as winning pitcher Todd Roberts, Joe Cohen and Chris Tetzelli supplied the power and Ravi

Babu, Andy Gellar, Doug Davis and Marty Longman led the losers. No. 3 then lost, 4-3 to No. 1. Winning pitcher Jeff Enslin and Richard DiBianco doubled for No. 1, while Carter Sharaf tripled and Tetzelli stroked two singles for No. 3. The losers' Charlie Reeves stole three bases.

No Hitter for Blaxill. Mark Blaxill brought Roma Eterna even with a 10-0, no - hitter against Century 21. He also hit a double along with teammates Joe Connell and Jon Abrahams.

Century won its first when it outlasted Italian - American, 16-15. David Lennon belted a grand slam for 21 as Darryl Hemingway got the win. Sam Pirone and Lance Savage excelled on defense for the victors.

FIRST GAME, FIRST WIN

For Princeton Post 76. In its opening game in the Mercer County American Legion league, Princeton Post 76 came from behind to tie Hamilton Post 31 in the ninth and then won it, 6-5, in the 11th when Dave Reed and Al Kandell successfully engineered a double steal, Reed coming come.

Post 76 had forced the game into extra innings when Reed doubled home Mark Adams, who had singled. Adams had three of the victors' 11 hits, while Keith Greener and Kandell each had two. Jon Luse got the win.

TWO ARE TIED

For Softball Lead. Sweet Jersey Corn and Conte's Bar remain the only unbeaten teams in the Princeton Women's Softball League after last week's action. Both are 4-0.

SJC had an easy time with Community Liquors, winning 14-7 as Clare Baxter drove in three runs and Dee Pearce blasted two triples. Sally McEwen homered for the losers. Conte's won by forfeit over Princeton Indoor Tennis Center (P.I.T.S.).

Koffee Kup was the victim of the week's biggest upset, as the Pacers of Princeton Medical Center pushed across four runs in the top of the seventh and held on for a 10-9 win. Pitcher Betty James (three hits, three RBIs) helped her own cause by driving in the winning run.

The Zephyrs, trailing 7-3 after three innings, got their defense working and took Ivy, 11-10. Thirteen walks by Ivy pitchers and some clutch hitting by Angie Teresky that scored Gloria Turk with what

Reed Is MVP

David Reed, second baseman for the Princeton High School baseball team, was selected by his teammates for the Most Valuable Player award at a sports dinner held last week by the PHS team. A senior, Reed had 20 hits and batted .350. "Nobody worked harder," said PHS coach Jim O'Neill.

Senior outfielder Mike Santoro was given the Sportsmanship Award. He had 12 hits and batted .368. "It's a shame he didn't play earlier," said O'Neill. "He's a heck of a natural athlete." Santoro did not come out for the sport until his junior year.

IN CURRENT EXHIBIT: An early watercolor by Milton Avery, part of the display at Western Electric on Carter Road, combined the ocean, bathers and the female form, three of Avery's most important subjects.

ART In Princeton

AVERY WORK ON VIEW

At Western Electric. During this century new generations of courageous visionaries have applied their tools and their talents to expanding the artistic possibilities to be found within the ordinary and the familiar. Conventional landscapes, traditional figurative subject matter, and familiar nature forms have taken on new meaning and undergone structural transformations as artists have explored the deeper implications and more complicated expressive imagery to be found in forms that once offered only their surfaces.

Painters have reached out to find colors within color, to reveal facets and convolutions in the underlying structure of apparently simple surfaces, and to express their impressions of color and light emanating from the rhythms that their subjects created for them.

In the course of the search for new expressive modes many painters discarded the image while others reached out for a kind of hyper-literal statement. Many altered their style as their vision expanded while still others altered their style as fashion changed. A few painters found their own vocabulary and devoted their lives to refining and developing the vision that was their own.

The work of Milton Avery is the product of such an artist. Early in his life he discovered his own response to the images before him and spent his career enhancing his artistic point of view. Although he had some training at the Connecticut League for Art Students, he was largely self taught.

Style Is Unique. His subjects were those he found around him. Seascapes, trees, his daughter March, the bathers he saw at Gloucester and Cape Ann, and the nudes he sketched at his weekly workshop. Although many other artists have dealt with similar themes, Avery's portrayals are unique. He essentially invented his own style and remained faithful to it throughout his life. No other artist refined his color and simplified his forms in Avery's mode. He was able to extract the aesthetic essence from his subject and present his image with a purity and clarity of form and color that remains uniquely his.

The collection of oils and watercolor paintings on display at the Gallery at Western Electric Corporate Education Center on Carter Road spans a good part of Avery's career. We are able to experience some of his relatively early works and to enjoy the stylistic maturation that took place over several decades.

The familiar themes are all here. The lone tree, bathers, mountains, meadows and the ocean are presented with the economy of form and thin washes of soft flat color that characterize Avery's work. The reduction of shape and the refinement of color contribute to the intensification of the nature of the subject at the same time as they articulate the artist's sensitivity to spatial relationships and color dynamics.

The lone tree represents every tree, and the mountains maintain the essence of all mountains. Forms are simplified and flattened until all but the essence of the subject has been removed. Color in the later works is softened, and in the earlier paintings is intensified.

In most of the works the refinement of color and form is combined with large scale to create a powerful affect which becomes even more meaningful when the paintings are studied in depth. Avery's paintings are highly sophisticated artistic statements and, for many, are an acquired taste. They are not to be viewed superficially, but considered, carefully consumed and then reconsidered, in order to be enjoyed and appreciated fully.

At ETS. An exhibition of paintings, prints and sculpture organized by the Princeton Art Association can be seen at the Henry Chauncey Conference Center. The collection includes a variety of styles and technical approaches that allow for an interesting viewing experience. Three paintings, each in a different mode, are sufficient to justify the trip to the gallery. Morning Mist by Helen Gallagher, Beach Abstract by Eileen Shahbender and Jeanne Pasley's view of Winter each expresses its theme in a different manner, but each provides an equally fine demonstration of the painter's art. In each case, color, space and surface are carefully considered and sensitively developed. The companion pieces in this exhibit are often interesting and generally well done.

INVOLVED IN ART LOTTERY: Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lawson-Johnston and their daughter Mimi look on as Mrs. Robert Speir, co-owner, decides where to display Robert Sakson's watercolor, which will be offered at the Princeton Art Association's art lottery on June 23. (John Marshall photo)

The Gallery at Home - 24 Witherspoon. The work of four New Jersey craftswomen is featured for June. A combination of traditional and innovative works in several media makes the collection an interesting one. Ceramic fountains and urns by Martha Otis Wright are substantial contemporary works that bear an antique cast as a result of unusual glazing techniques. Glazes with a metallic cast mix with darkened surfaces that give the appearance of newly dug treasure.

Lois Morrison's mixed media works defy labelling because of the unusual combinations of materials and techniques, but offer an interesting, and often entertaining, viewing experience. Trapunto, found wooden forms – including old furniture parts and window frames -- drawings, and some paintings are combined to create hangings and sculpture. Good craftsmanship is joined with sensitive presentation that is often witty as well as pleasing.

Traditional crochet by Denise Loucks Jacobs and ceramics by Jean Einbeck Vogrin complete the collection.

FUND-RAISER PLANNED

By Art Association. "An Evening with Art and Artists," the Princeton Art Association's first major fundraiser, will be held at the Princeton Inn College on Saturday, June 23.

The exhibition will open at 5:30 followed by a lottery drawing at 7. Forty-seven original works of art will be presented to holders of winning tickets by Peter Lawson-Johnston, President of the Guggenheim Museum. There will be a cash bar and accompaning appetizers will be served with the compliments of the PAA.

The works of art offered by the lottery are the contributions of New York and New Jersey artists to the PAA. The list includes George Segal, Dorothea Greenbaum, Walter Darby Bannard, Peter Cook and Hiroshi Murata. Sculpture, drawings, paintings, prints and watercolors are represented in a variety of styles from representational to abstract, with values up to $1,000.

"The response from the art community has been simply overwhelming," said Mrs. Susan Swartz, chairman of the event. "It's good to know the PAA is recognized for the support we give our artist-members in arranging exhibitions, providing workshops and classes, and acting as an information center for news of value to the exhibiting artist."

Since its inception in 1964 the PAA's membership has grown from 75 to more than 900. More than 300 students, from novices to professionals, attend classes during each of the four terms.

The current Summer '79 Bulletin lists 31 different classes, ranging from children's art groups to painting for senior citizens. The faculty of 15 practising artists, most of whom have earned graduate degrees in their field, offers study in all fine arts media.

The PAA mounts juried and invitational exhibits at McCarter Theatre during the season, and offers exhibition space to members at several locations in the community. Bus trips are organized monthly to exhibits of particular interest in the New York and Philadelphia areas, with occasional two or three day trips to more exotic locations such as Washington, D.C.

Proceeds from the PAA's fund-raising event will help to expand the scope of the programs it offers to the community. For information on participation in the lottery, call the PAA at 921-9173.

WORKSHOP OFFERED

In Printmaking. A workshop in Collographic Printmaking will be offered by Elizabeth Monath at her studio on four Wednesday evenings beginning June 20.

The workshop, which will deal with the various methods of relief and intaglio printing, will run from 7 to 10. Call the Princeton Art Association, 921-9173, for information and registration.

ART LOTTERY PLANNED

By Art Association. "An Evening with Art and Artists," the Princeton Art Association's first major fundraiser, will be held at the Princeton Inn College on Saturday, June 23. The event will proceed from the enjoyment of an exhibition opening at 5:30 to a lottery drawing at 7.

Forty-seven original works of art will be presented to holders of winning tickets by Peter Lawson-Johnston, president of the Guggenheim Museum. There will be a cash bar; accompanying appetizers will be served with the compliments of the PAA.

The works of art offered by the lottery are the contributions of New York and New Jersey artists to the PAA. The list includes such professionals as George Segal, Dorothea Greenbaum, Walter Darby Bannard, Peter Cook, and Hiroshi Murata. Sculpture, drawings, paintings, prints and watercolors are represented in a variety of styles from representational to abstract, with values up to $1,000.

"The response from the art community has been simply overwhelming," said Mrs. Susan Swartz, chairman of the event. "It's good to know the PAA is recognized for the support we give our artist-members in arranging exhibitions, providing workshops and classes, and acting as an information center for news of value to the exhibiting artist."

Since its inception in 1964 the PAA's membership has grown from 75 to more than 900. Over 300 students, from novices to professionals, attend classes during each of the four terms. The current summer '79 Bulletin lists 31 different classes, ranging from children's art groups to painting for senior citizens. The faculty of 15 practising artists, most of whom have earned graduate degrees in their field, offers study in all fine arts media.

The PAA mounts juried and invitational exhibits at McCarter Theatre during the season, and offers exhibition space to members at several locations in the community. Bus trips are organized monthly to exhibits of particular interest in the New York and Philadelphia areas, with occasional two or three day trips to locations such as Washington, D.C.

Proceeds from the PAA's fund-raising event will help to expand the scope of the programs it offers to the community. For information on how to participate in the lottery, call the PAA at 921-9173.

Pam Carone, Clare Baxter and Liz Hoffman provided the offense as Jersey Corn defeated Ivy Inn, 12-4. Sherry Staats doubled for the Inn. SAILING RESULTS

Rick Obers Wins. Five Lasers and two Sunfish took part in the eighth race day of the carnegie Sailing Club's Spring series. The wind was from the southeast at about ten knots, with only moderate changes in strength and direction.

In the Laser fleet, Rick Ober of Kingston won with two firsts in six races. Bob Holzman was second and Bernie Leefer was third.

The two Sunfish Skippers, Dan Mazzarella and Walt Gibson, practiced match-racing skills rather than regular racing because the Club requires three boats for a race to be scored. After the racing, the Club held its Spring picnic by the lake.

The Spring series at the north end of the lake ends on June 24. New members are welcome.

SUMMER TENNIS SET

In W. Windsor. For the tenth straight summer, the West Windsor Recreation Commission is sponsoring a variety of doubles tennis leagues for men and women.

The womens leagues take place both during the daytime and in the evening; the men have two leagues each evening; and an adult mixed league is played on Sunday evenings. Bob Bruschi, township recreation director, has application blanks at both the town hall on Clarksville Road and in the library in Dutch Neck.

The leagues begin on July 1 and end on Labor Day. The deadline for entries is Friday, June 22, and the leagues are open at no charge to West Windsor residents.
